TOPPER SHOWS FOUR OUTBOARDS

► Topper builds four models of outboard boats, all 20' long and with 8' beam, finished as the Utility, the Hardtop Sportsman, the Deluxe Sports Cruiser, and the Sedan Cruiser. Hulls are of the V-type, built of five-ply marine plywood over white oak frames, with mahogany fore-decks and trim.

All four models are light enough to be trailed, the Utility weighing 800 lbs. and the Sedan Cruiser 1400 lbs. The latter has a fully-enclosed cabin with full length berths, galley, marine toilet, and sliding side windows. It will take single or twin motors, and is reported to have made 20 m.p.h. with one 30 hp. motor. It is priced at $2195. The Deluxe Sports Cruiser has similar accommodations, but no galley. It is priced at $1985. The Hardtop Sportsman sells for $1495, and the Utility for $1124.

TITANIUM FOR MARINE FITTINGS

► Titanium is a metal that is being used with increasing frequency for marine fittings. Its producers say the principal reason is that titanium is both light weight and strong. It weighs 44 percent less than stainless steel and half as much as bronze; yet it is as strong as steel and is tough, readily worked, and corrosion-resistant.

Titanium is being used for mast tangs and other fittings aloft where weight is an important factor, as well as for spinnaker pole fittings, goosenecks, blocks, winches, and chocks. Its resistance to corrosion, by sea water and by the products of combustion, indicate its use for fuel tanks, sea water condensers, etc.

Up to now the defense industries have taken most of the available supplies of titanium and it is expensive. But production is being increased and there is evidence that prices will be reduced and supplies more plentiful.

REM-CRU TITANIUM, INC., Midland, Penna.

The new Imperial trailers feature a tilting bed for easy loading and unloading and stable keel and hull support. Three models, for 14'-800 lb., 16'-1200 lb., and 18'-1800 lb. boats. IMPERIAL TRAILER CO., INC., P.O. Box 4024, Fort Worth, Tex.

We win the "highest award in business publication journalism"

If the editorial staff of Toys & Novelties appears to be popping its buttons this month, it's because of this letter we received from Industrial Marketing, the magazine of selling and advertising to business and industry.

"Congratulations! Toys & Novelties has won an award in the merchandising, trade and export group of Industrial Marketing's 19th Annual Business Paper Editorial Achievement Competition. You received a plaque for the best original research, your feature entitled, 'Child Population, an Analysis of the Toy Buying Power of America,' that appeared in the May, 1956 issue.

"This year there was a record 653 entries in the competition. So you can see you had to be good to win. A group of 31 distinguished judges took all day on March 28 to judge the competition.

"Again, congratulations from the Industrial Marketing editorial staff and the judges on winning this 'highest award in business publication journalism.' Leo Anderson, Managing Editor."

We're proud of this signal honor. And, we're proud of the staff members who helped make this award possible. So, orchids from the editor to Barbara Michael, our research director, who did all the field work, jiggled her slide rule and punched her Comptometer and came up with final figures which a year later proved correct within a few percentage points. And, to Elliott Gorman, our art director, whose attractive and easy-to-read presentation made the statistics palatable to our readers. And, finally, to those of our subscribers whose letters of praise and orders for more than 10,000 reprints were in themselves an award.

Appeals Court hands down decision which may rock Fair Trade nationwide

The United States Court of Appeals for the Second Circuit in May reversed a lower court decision which held that the General Electric Company was entitled to an injunction stopping the Masters Mail Order

RCA VICTOR

RCA Victor has introduced a portable radio designed especially for yachtsmen, fishermen, and folks living near the water. It's called New Yachtsman (Model 7B8x) and features a powerful marine band that pulls in any nautical broadcast - weather reports, Coast Guard flashes, ship-to-shore message as well as a Standard Broadcast Band. A 3-way portable that operates on AC or DC power as well as one self-contained battery, the new model features a Surf Green non-breakable Impac case guaranteed for five years.

The New Wave Finder by rotating brings in distant stations without need for positioning the radio itself.

RCA Victor also offers a similar model without the marine band - the New Globetrotter (Model 7Bx8). It's available in a choice of Aqua or Horizon Gray "Impac" cases.

WEBB DURATITE

One of the maintenance problems which the boat owner must face is that of filling nicks and gouges in hull and wood work. The Webb Products Company with plants in California, Georgia and Canada have long specialized in the manufacture of products to make these jobs easier and more satisfactory. Their Wood Dough for example is a material which readily serves to fill damaged areas. It hardens quickly into wood which can be sanded, stained and painted in exactly the same manner as the original wood.

Another of their products appears under the name Duratite. This is a water- and weather-proof plastic surfacing putty which can be used on wood, metal, or canvas to fill small damaged areas. Made in colors to match all boat materials it serves to repair minor damaged spots neatly and quickly. It can be sanded to the finished surface is a perfect match to the material. The repair is permanent since Duratite will not shrink.

DOUGLASS & McLEOD

The racing of small one-design sailboats is a sport which is growing at a tremendous rate. Among the most popular of this type of craft is the Thistle, built by Douglass & McLeod, Inc., Painesville, Ohio. Thistles are of 5-ply molded construction with a length of 17' and a sail area of 175 sq. ft. in mainsail and overlapping jib. They are fitted with flotation tanks and will support 350 pounds even when filled with water. This is an important safety feature, permitting them to be sailed out if capsized.

A somewhat larger design, the Highlander Class is of 6-ply construction and a length of 20' with a sail area of 225 sq. ft. They embody many of the same features which have been found so desirable in the Thistles. The hulls are light, weighing about 550 pounds, which permits easy handling on a trailer or pulling out on rollers on a beach. Roller reefing gear permits rolling in a reef in practically no time at all.

DANCO MOORINGS

An excellent type of mooring chain float is being made in the form of a cube by Danco Instruments, Inc., of Huntington Station, New York. It is essentially a durable, fiberglass-covered polystyrene cube through which is passed a renewable galvanized steel liner. The liner takes the wear of the mooring chain passing through the tube.

They are produced in several convenient sizes, 9, 12, 15, and 18" square, and are designed to support an appropriate length of chain to suit varying conditions. The largest 18" size will support a 60' length of 3/4" chain and a correspondingly shorter length of heavier chain. A small 6" pick-up buoy is also available to attach to the mooring pennant. This type float is unbreakable and proof against rust and corrosion.

FEDERAL PAINT

A new medium-priced copper bottom paint, Federal Tropical Red #11, developed by the Federal Paint Co., Inc., 33 Rector St., N. Y. C. 6, N. Y., is said to provide full season protection. Tropical Red #11 is formulated with RTP (Reserve Toxic Power), for full season protection under even the most trying conditions, it is said.

Federal Tropical Red #11 requires no costly or special thinners, spreads smoothly and evenly over hulls without high spots or build-up, so as to give maximum coverage per gallon.

BEVERLY FAMOWOOD

An excellent product for filling cracks and gouges in wood appears under the trade name of Famowood. This product is an all-purpose plastic, packed in cans, and made by the Beverly Manufacturing Company, 9118 S. Main Street, Los Angeles 3, California. It is made in fifteen colors to match any woods and works like putty. It is a waterproof product which dries quickly and which will fill nail and screw holes, and correct defects. It will sand easily and does not gum up the sander. Famowood can be painted, varnished, lacquered, stained and oiled, and will adhere to any surface which is dry and free from oil.

A companion product, Famoglaze, combines all desirable qualities in filling hair-line cracks and minor defects in boat hulls and cabinet work. This product also works easily and leaves a porcelain-like finish. It is available in white and mahogany only and is a compounded cellulose glazing plastic and fine surfacing putty.

THURSTON SAILS

In a new development in sailmaking currently being used by Thurston Sails, Inc., Warren, Rhode Island, strips of fine-lay Dacron tape are used to finish off all synthetic sails in place of old style bolt rope. After thorough testing Thurston taped sails have proved to be superior in holding their shape over old style bolt ropes on synthetic sails. Thurston taped sails allow synthetic sail cloth and tape to have an equal amount of give, thus insuring the shape and drive of all sails to remain constant. It allows the skipper more control over the set of the same sail as it may be made flatter or fuller by the tautness on outboards. Taped sails eliminate heavy bulky bolt ropes yet the sail remains safely strong and always retains its original built-in shape and draft. The new development will be used on all Thurston synthetic sails in the future unless the buyer specifies otherwise.

BROADWATER PRAMS

Pre-drilled holes are provided through the plywood sides and bottom for the seat and keel rails. Other features include mahogany marine plywood, brass screws, one-piece bottom, and full-length seat and keel rails.

A completely assembled model is also available.

SPINNAKERS OF UNUSUAL DESIGN

► Spinnakers of radically different design are now being turned out for Lightnings, E-Scows, and some other one-design classes by Roller Wider Spinnakers, of Neenah, Wis. As their name implies, the spinnakers have greater width than conventional sails and are reported to draw well, not only in light airs from directly aft but on close reaches as well.

According to Walter W. Roller, their originator, the design is based on the theory that "the greatest projected area across a wind stream catches the most wind and produces the greatest power when handled by a good airfoil."

CHARTER SERVICE BY HARTGE

► Cruising, Inc. operates a chartering service in the Chesapeake area, among the cruising auxiliaries it offers being several of the boats built at the Hartge yard.

DAVIES BUILDS THE IDLER

► The Rhodes designed Idler Class auxiliary sloop is being produced by Sidney Davis & Sons, with the first boats scheduled for delivery in early spring. The Idler is 25' o.a., 20' w.l., 8' beam, 3'10" draft, and carries 293' of working sail. Backbone and frames are oak, planking, cabin sides, and trim are mahogany. A choice of cabin layouts is offered and engine options include Palmer, Grav, Universal and Red Wing.

Davies & Son have been boat and spinnaker builders for more than 25 years, and keep a stock of selected Sitka spruce on hand for production of spars of all sizes. Their new yard, occupied the first of this year, provides expanded facilities for building and service.

Typical comments:

"I've had no repairs made on my baler and have baled 20,000 bales or better."

"Out of all my baling this summer, my Ford baler missed tying only 15 or 20 bales."

"At one time during first cutting, I tied over 2300 bales of hay in succession without missing a bale."

Owners praise the clean, compact design of the Ford baler with its easy handling, its fewer working parts and simple maintenance. They like the dependable feeding action of its exclusive sweep fork design, the smooth performance of its floating pick-up on rough ground, and the square, uniform quality of its bales. $1,252 Profit in 3 Months Part-Time Cutting HOMELITE CHAIN SAW

Mr. Ernest E. Schmiedel is a certified Pennsylvania Tree Farmer who owns a Homelite Chain Saw and a 120-acre farm in Ridgway. While most of his income comes from corn and buckwheat, he makes a better than average annual income from his 70-acre woodlot. Last winter, for example, in 3 months of part-time work he selectively cut 75 cords of maple which he sold as paperwood for $1,600 (he would have received only $178 if he had sold it "on the stump"). His total costs for hauling the timber and running the saw were $347.50 — leaving a net profit of $1,252.50 which helped him purchase a new tractor.

Your DOCTOR and You

BY MICHAEL WELLES

Stopping Heart Attacks. Sintrom, a new anti-coagulant drug, has proved effective in preventing repeated heart attacks. It cuts down formation of blood clots which cause coronary thrombosis attacks. Patients who already had had such heart attacks took the drug by mouth as part of a long-term study. They had far fewer subsequent attacks and a survival rate eight times that of others not receiving treatment. Sintrom is more powerful, faster-acting and safer than the older anti-coagulants. (Report to A.M.A., Dr. Benjamin Manchester, George Washington University)

Prevents Kidney Stones. Salicylate tablets have stopped new stones from forming in a group of patients who had had repeated troubles and had passed as many as six or eight stones a year. Many had required one or more operations to remove large stones.

For as long as three years now, no patient has had a stone attack while taking the tablets under supervision. (Dr. Edwin L. Prien, Boston University School of Medicine, Boston, Mass.)

Phenobarbital for Hypertension. Good news for many hypertensive patients: in many cases, phenobarbital may be at least as effective as any other medication for reducing high blood pressure.

One doctor tried the drug in the form of sustained-release, long-acting capsules—there was a marked reduction of pressure in about 70% of the 30 patients involved including some that were severe. In every one of the milder cases, blood pressure dropped to normal or near normal.

Only 16 patients developed side effects such as drowsiness and dizziness, and these quickly disappeared as the medication was continued or given in smaller doses.

(American Practitioner, 8/59)

Ends Walking Pain. Blood vessel disorders of the legs can make walking difficult, producing pain after just a few steps. A new 30-month study of the drug, Roncol, showed that it benefited 82% of patients treated. Most were able to walk at least half a mile farther without any pain than they

HOBBIES AND CRAFTS SECTION

English's '57 Hobbyline hailed as effort to broaden HO market

The John A. English Co., Morrisville, Pa., has made its recently introduced Hobbyline Train Sets line for 1957 an integral part of a plan to increase the market for HO equipment and attract new enthusiasts to the field.

"The problem of increasing the market for HO equipment has always been with us," said Jack English, president of the firm, one of the oldest manufacturers in the HO field. "And like the weather, it was talked about but nothing was done."

"Ours is the first attempt to attract new customers and make enthusiasts of the old ones. We give them a kit to build at no extra charge. Therefore we add an interest factor and add to the value of the item, both measures calculated to attract new business and stimulate regular sales."

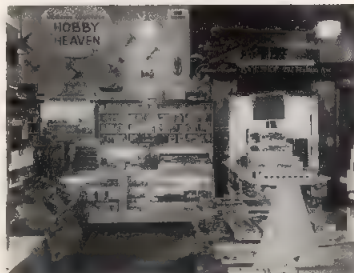

To simplify dealer inventory and to concentrate its promotional effort, the English firm has reduced its number of Hobbyline sets to two, in the two price brackets at which the greatest volume is done - $25 and $35.

Both units are handsomely gift-boxed with a transparent cover.

FREE Hobbykit is included in each of English's ready-to-run Hobbyline sets. This gives the rail-roader the fun of operating a train set plus the thrill of building his own equipment. Rocky Mountain set (left) is $25, Allegheny Special (r) $35.

Hobbies and Hardware

tailors whose specialties are job lots, close-outs, cut-rated conglomerations and Army-Navy surplus goods. On the same block is a toy and hobby outlet that does it with a discount. And not too far away is a large department store, with a considerable hardware and hobby establishment, where the price cut is a mainspring of the merchandising mechanism.

In the face of this competition Patterson Brothers downtown store thrives on the quality of its wares and the service with which it sells them. Quality goods and complete selling service come before price consideration. It is no unique merchandising method that Patterson Brothers practices; it is merely giving the customer what he wants in a way he likes to get it.

The same method has been applied to running the Hobby Shop, in operation since last October. Giving the customer what he wants means close stock control to skim off the slow moving numbers, holding complete stock of popular items and keeping the lines moving with the introduction of the newest and most promising numbers.

"New products are the vitality of the hobby business," says manager Altieri. "They serve not only to catch particular interests and make new customers, but they keep the regulars interested in new lines of effort and keep them coming back for more."

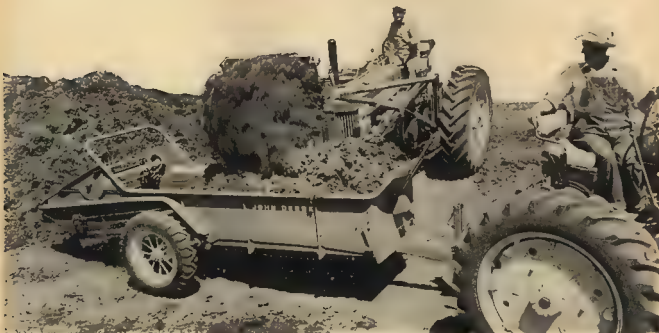

By Patterson Brothers standards Al

Altieri is admirably equipped to serve patrons of his Hobby Heaven counter. He has the intelligence, the aptitude and the interest to hobnob with hobbyists, and an enthusiasm for his work that is undiminished by the near-constant chore of dusting his display stocks that stand just inside the doorway—square in the path, he says, of every speck of dust that blows around this part of the city.

Dusting, selling or answering inquiries, Al Altieri typifies the service that prevails at Patterson: energy, enthusiasm and eagerness to please. There are some who will argue that the low, low price is the most convincing selling force, but none of them could argue forcefully against 108 years of successfully doing business the Patterson Brothers' way.

Built for SPEED and Built TO LAST...

JOHN DEERE Manure-Handling Equipment

Loading and spreading manure is faster and easier when you use a John Deere Loader and Spreader. And, over the years, manure handling will cost you less money because this equipment lasts longer and requires less upkeep.

Two Powerful Loaders

You save on loading time with a John Deere 45 or 45-W Loader because these loaders have a fast-acting hydraulic system that raises big, full loads quickly and smoothly, that lowers the bucket rapidly—and holds the load securely at any height. The bucket has long, tapered spring-steel teeth which dig deeply into the pile to bring up a full load every time.

The 45 Loader works with all John Deere Tricycle Tractors. The 45-W works with most John Deere Tractors with an adjustable front axle. Both go on or off the tractor in 5 minutes or less.

Three High-Speed Spreaders

No matter what size of feeding or dairy operation you have—you can match your exact needs from the famous line of John Deere Spreaders. You can choose the 70-Bushel Model "L," the 95-Bushel Model "R," or the big 120-Bushel PTO-Driven Model "N"—all work at speeds up to 6 mph and are built to last longer while working at fast speeds.

See your John Deere dealer for complete details the next time you are in town.

The John Deere Credit Plan makes it easy for you to pay for cost-cutting equipment as it earns money for you.

Too Much Easy Credit? • • • Just how do you go about getting this "easy credit"? Mr. Gettig complains about [Letters, September]. We were turned down flat when we tried to get a loan to buy more cows. Two years later when our house burned down, we tried unsuccessfully to get the place refinanced by FHA. I was told by an FHA administrator that the government was trying to discourage people from farming and that it would be better for me to go to work for someone.

Charles Lehman

• • • We're a young farm couple fortunate enough to meet the requirements of Federal "easy credit" which made it possible for us to start farming for ourselves. When we've made the last payments to that fine agency I hope we won't forget how we became independent.

How do They Figure It? • • • It's nice to know that some of the discrepancies in tax assessments are being corrected ["A Scandal That's Costing You Money," September]. We know taxes are necessary, but we don't want to pay anyone else's share, or have them pay ours.

Several years ago we bought part of a large farm, and another man bought a second part of the same farm. Although the land in these two farms is identical, our taxes are twice as high.

The man who bought the third part of this farm pays taxes twice as high as ours—although much of his land is subject to overflow.

Wheelhouse installation of Belock magnetic steering compass and bulkhead gyro-compass repeater

BELOCK NAVIGATING INSTRUMENTS

► A new navigation aid recently announced by Belock Instrument Corp., is the Dead Reckoning Analyzer, which continuously provides direct reading of a ship's latitude and longitude from inputs of initial position, speed, and course. On large vessels, it is used in conjunction with loran (also made by Belock) in obtaining an accurate fix.

Among other navigation instruments made by Belock are magnetic compasses with tele-transmission, gyro compasses and repeaters, radar, course recorders, and an alidade—an azimuth instrument with a split beam optical arrangement through which the azimuth, scale on a compass may be viewed as the bearing is taken.

The magnetic compass with tele-transmission consists of an accurate magnetic compass electrically linked to a sensitive follow-up system. The master compass can be placed at a distance from magnetic influences and will transmit headings to the repeaters and to an automatic pilot.

FLORIDA BUILDER OFFERS FIVE FIBERGLASS OUTBOARDS

Peninsular Fiberglass Products, Inc. of Hialeah, Florida, is offering five models of outboard boats for 1957. The firm has enlarged its plant and expanded production facilities to meet the increasing demand for its line of Vanguard all-fiberglass pleasure craft.

All models in the line embody one-piece seamless hull construction, full-length molded-in flotation, molded-in ledge-type splash rails, longitudinal bottom stringers for rigidity, neoprene gunwale guards, non-skid decks, and permanently impregnated colors.

The Vanguard Holiday runabout has a separate motor well, a walk-through center deck between cockpits, and a collapsible seat feature which provides a spacious rear compartment. In the 15' Heron utility, roominess is achieved by the open styling of the after deck. The 15' Mermaid fisherman model offers space to fish or loaf with casting room to spare. The forward seat serves as a casting platform and a sizable recess is molded under the center seat. A 70" beam and 36" amidship depth are combined with a well-flared bow on each of these three 15' models.

Basic hardware, water trap, hailers and permanently molded-in bracket for steerer blocks are installed as standard equipment while otterbars, windshields and cushions are optional equipment.

Newest of the Vanguard fleet is the Biscayne express cruiser, with a 7' beam, 17' 7" gunwale length, 44" fore depth and 32" aft depth. The trunk cabin has two berths forward, wrap-around windshield, side windows, built-in storage compartments and flying bridge. There's a spacious cockpit and built-in icebox. The Bimini utility is another version of the Biscayne without the cabin.

All transoms are built to handle the new lighter horsepower motors and each Vanguard boat is backed by a company warranty against defects in either material or workmanship.

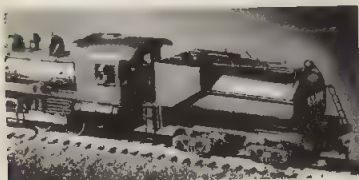

SERVICE FOR COMMUTING BOATMEN

Lauderdale Yacht Basin, located just 30 minutes by boat up New River in Fort Lauderdale in the fresh water area, has as near the ideal yacht service as is possible for the commuting yachtsman. Let us take Robert Miner as an example. . . Mr. Miner owns November 1, a Chris-Craft Corsair, and splits his winter vacation time three or four ways. He flies down to Ft. Lauderdale from Washington, D. C., at every opportunity and by merely notifying Lauderdale Yacht Basin the day before arrival his boat will be fully commissioned, stocked and ready for his use when and where he wishes it. In the meantime when the craft is not in service—it is safely de-commissioned and stored under cover in fresh water in a locked and supervised storage shed, safe from strangers, from the ravages of the sun, wind, and rain, as well as from the barnacles and worms.

DATA ON WOOD SCREW FASTENINGS

A new service to screw users has just been announced by Fritz Jensen, president of Southern Screw Company, Statesville, N. C. Every master carton of Southern wood screws and sheet metal screws will now contain Folder TC-4, "Instructions for Selecting and Using Wood Screws and Sheet Metal Screws." Folder TC-4 gives complete instructions for measuring length and diameter, head styles available, pilot hole sizes, drill bit sizes, etc.

Southern now produces two assortments of quality fasteners with screw gauge and driving instructions which offers a savings up to 50% over fasteners brought in dribbles and saves the handy-man's workshop time by eliminating needless trips to the hardware store. Home-Shop Screw Department No. 1 contains 1552 bright plated pieces of many sizes assembled in one ten-box carton. It includes flat-head wood screws, pan-head sheet metal screws and round-head stove bolts with nuts. Home-Shop Screw Department No. 2 contains 1440 slotted, steel wood screws, all bright plated in flat, round and oval heads packed in a ten-box carton in wide range of sizes.

FEATURED IN THE AMERICAN TOY PROMOTION AD ON THE PRECEDING PAGES

NOW! Build the way REAL MODERN BUILDINGS are built!

Simple!
Only 3
BASIC PARTS

BUILDING GOES UP just like a real building of structural steel . . . First girder framework is constructed on the masonite foundation with interlocking plastic upright and cross girders. Next, plastic prefab walls and roof panels snap on. The finishing touch is colorful flags, signs, marquees, etc. Youngsters get a real thrill designing and building original colorful modern buildings ("H. O." scale), skyscrapers, railroad stations, factories, air terminal buildings and hundreds more, each with different framework and panel arrangement. Set builds rigid structures on masonite foundation board that can be picked up and carried anywhere.

NEW from Kewanee...a Super Disk!

Look for the Big Red Disk with the green Timken Bearings

Pusher and puller bars help make the KEWANEE WHEEL-MOUNTED DISK the most rigid disk built. (You can't get this rigid-construction feature on any other disk.) Pusher and puller bars prevent gangs from chattering—keep gangs in alignment . . . a KEWANEE rigid-construction feature protected by Patent #2760323.

KEWANEE's heavy steel frame is securely welded at every critical point. There are no bolts or pins at these points to shear off or loosen. Compare a KEWANEE that has been used hard for several seasons with any other disk and see how much more rigid the KEWANEE still is.

Here they are—the super disks from KEWANEE—completely equipped with heavy-duty Timken double-roller tapered bearings. Big canning companies report—not one single case of bearing failure with these disks after 3½ years continuous spring to fall use. (This is more than an average farmer would put a disk to in a lifetime.)

Farmers all over the U.S. report—not one single case of bearing failure—and KEWANEE SUPER DISKS still going strong after 3½ years of hard use.

KEWANEE, the originator of the WHEEL-MOUNTED DISK, now brings you another great, work-saving advancement. Now you can eliminate daily bearing maintenance. Now you can grease disk bearings just twice a season and yet greatly increase bearing life. Now you don't have to stop in the field to clean bearings—KEWANEE's new super seal won't let bearings clog up.

Here's How KEWANEE Adapted the Timken Double-Roller, Tapered Bearing To The WHEEL-MOUNTED DISK

KEWANEE has perfected a triple lip seal and grease fitting that absolutely keeps the precision Timken bearings always lubricated and clean. The grease fitting lets you easily flush out old, dry, hard grease and keep the bearings and the lips well lubricated. This is the greatest precision bearing seal ever developed and the proof is in the use. Remember that in 3½ years of use under all sorts of farming conditions, there has not been one single instance of bearing failure on the new KEWANEE SUPER DISKS. See these super disks at your dealer's now. (All KEWANEE DISKS are also available with standard bearings.)

Kewanee puts farming on wheels.

Vacation from a rut

with delicately tinted leaves and flowers on them with oil paints. These became three sets of earrings.

I made yarn dolls for little girls, and sock dolls for babies. I filled a dozen small round matching jars with the extra special gift jellies: Bar-le-Duc from our red currants simmered in honey, apple jelly with a leaf of rose geranium in the bottom of the jar. Here were colors and flavors and memories of the farm captured in a gift.

A day in a miniature forest back of our farm was for Saturday. There is something healing about the fragrance and small whispering talk of a woods.

I broke off a shelf fungus from a tree, and, using a sharp twig for a pencil I scratched a picture of the valley below on my fungus "canvas."

As I carried it home, with a handful of peppermint and forget-me-nots and water cress from the creek, I picked up a rose and black and cream rock left for me ten thousand years ago by a glacier. Then I stopped to think: "If you were reared on a farm, or have lived on one, you have a great deal. The place you live, be it farm or city, is drab—or delightful—according to how you look at it. It's how you see it, and how you feel about it that makes you happy or unhappy."

Sunday I went to church. Listening to the music I thought that the big mistake we sometimes make is in expecting too much—expecting more than a person—or circumstances of life—can give us.

My week made me see familiar things with new eyes. I had exchanged my disappointments for contentment during my $5 vacation. End

The Pond

The pond was water nearly halfway to the bottom, and the rest luxurious mud. Cool softness we would paddle in, and do Nothing but watch the dazzling cloudlets scud

Across the endless summer sky. To feel The rich earth-goodness oozing through our toes

And the water's calm caress, served to reveal to us our fellowship with all that grows. This is a moment we remember best

There in the earth and water's kind embrace,

Stretching out thoughts to meet the sky's high test,

Discovering relationship to space,

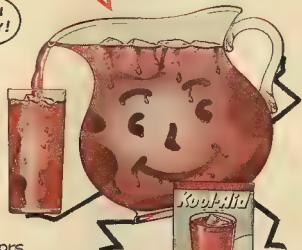

Recognizing the universal bond

Between us and the earth and sky and pond.

Trap-line secrets

ping foxes, advises Brown. They and the mink are sliest of all.

First of all, assemble your equipment. Get a clean basket or sack to carry it.

You'll need a No. 2 coil spring trap, a dirt sifter made from quarter-inch wire mesh, a small trowel, hand axe, clean gloves, and a bottle of fox lure, available from trapping supply houses.

Bait? "Cracklings," Brown told Johnny, "are the best you can get."

Foxes travel the open ridges and fence rows along hilltops. If you can find any sign of a path or trail, set your trap six or eight feet to one side.

Brown usually tries to make a fox set near an obstruction, such as a low rock or mound of earth. Then the trap can be approached from only one side.

He digs a small bait hole about six inches deep back into the bank or near the low rock, and in front of this he scrapes out the dirt about two inches deep for the trap.

He covers the face of the trap with a small piece of clean cloth or wax paper to keep dirt from blocking its action. Then with the screen mesh, he sifts fine dirt over the trap. Next he drops a few pieces of cracklings or pieces of rabbit meat into the bait hole and sprinkles two or three drops of fox lure on the set.

Finally he covers the set with a light layer of leaves, straw or grass.

Prices for furs vary from year to year—with the size and condition of the pelts and the demand from the clothing makers. Foxes no longer are in style, so their pelts are not salable. Last year, however, prime mink pelts were bringing $20 or more; muskrat pelts $1.50; raccoons, 50 cents to $3; weasels, 50 cents to $2; beavers, $5 to $25, and possums, 25 cents.

"She was singing that happy little washday song, when suddenly... swoosh...!"

FIVE Lionel HO diesel and steam outfits will retail in the $25 to $50 price range. Firm's new line includes models of six well-known railroads. Complete assortment of track, switches and accessories will be introduced this year.

Lionel goes HO with ready-to-run line

Lionel Corporation announced in May that it will manufacture and sell HO gauge train sets in a move calculated to reach "a hitherto untapped market."

In going after the adult hobby segment of the model train field, Lionel is banking on the line's "craftsmanship, detailing and scale realism" to gain favor.

The new line, produced in cooperation with the Italian manufacturing firm of Rivarossi, will include five ready-to-run diesel and steam outfits in the $25 to $50 price range; triple unit diesels, the replicas of six well-known railroads; 21 cars and a complete assortment of track, switches and accessories featuring the Lionel power pack.

Lionel's president, Lawrence Cowen, stated that his sales representatives were slated to begin their distributor calls immediately.

Another innovation at Lionel is the new Super "O", a modified three-rail system with the appearance of two-rail track.

Reported as the "first major improvement in model railroading track," each nine-inch section has two flat top T-shaped running rails and sixteen closely-spaced simulated wood ties.

Super "O" will accommodate all Lionel locomotives and rolling stock, accessories, trestles, etc. By using transition pins and clips, Super "O" can be mated and intermixed with all "O" and "027" track components.

SOME of the new packages for Comet's balsa models were displayed at the Hobby Show in Chicago. Buyers expressed approval of new package designs, Comet reports. Complete line will be seen at June show in New York.

Comet Model repackages entire airplane line

Repackaging of its entire line of 150 different model airplanes is nearly completed, Comet Model Hobbycraft Inc., of Chicago, has announced. The new packaging family will be among the features of Comet's display at the HIAA Trade Show in New York.

All Comet models, balsa or plastic, are now housed in striking, colorful boxes, each showing the plane contained in the box in large size and thrilling action. The basic designs have been planned with an eye to uniformity so that Comet boxes will be instantly recognizable on the shelf or counter.

All new Comet boxes are printed in full color on white coated stock. Designs for the boxes containing plastic models are executed in full-color paintings, vividly reproduced and varnished to bring out the colors.

The models, which include jets, fighters, bombers and executive planes, range from 29c and 39c to 69c and 98c, and control gas models at $9.95 and $12.95. The latter are the popular Mustang, a $12.95 retailer, and the Sabre 14, complete at $9.95.

The lower priced plastic models have been grouped in a Squadron of Six for $1.69 and Comet's Big Six at $2.29. Balsa models range from 15c to $1.29, and Comet offers a full line of paints and cements for both balsa and plastic models.

Toy makers have U.S. answer to Sputnik

LITTLE SPUTNIK is new name applied to Park Plastic's Satellite Battle Station. Its four flying pursuit saucers can be fired individually or in salvo. Atomic cannon fires suction-cup darts. Beeps like the real thing.

SATELLITE LAUNCHER TRUCK by Ideal fires saucer-shaped satellites. Rear of truck has rotating radar cab and pilot's compartment. Introduced also is the "Sky Sweeper Truck" with Nikes to shoot down satellites.

• Within hours after the first news reports appeared concerning Sputnik, the Soviet earth satellite, the toy manufacturing industry called attention to our own satellites available to anyone with $4.98 in his pocket.

Park Plastics Co. of Linden, N.J. immediately printed streamers carrying the name "Little Sputnik" for dealers to place on its package for the "Satellite Battle Station." Its product received a big promotional push in the New York World-Telegram & Sun in the form of a feature story and photo. Retail at $4.98.

Other manufacturers tie-in

blasted the press with a barrage of publicity on its "Satellite Launcher Truck." Also a $4.98 retailer.

Also making the daily papers, in connection with satellites and space travel stories, were articles concerning Wen-Mac's "Flying Platform" and the "Rocket-Shute" made by Lamalco Toys of Boulder, Colo.

Wholesale Stationers plan March convention, exhibit

Six round-table "Problem Solving Conferences" will highlight the 42nd annual convention of the Wholesale Stationers' Association which, with an International Merchandise Exhibit, is scheduled Mar. 2-5 at the New Yorker Hotel and the New York Trade Show Bldg., respectively, New York City.

Topics to be discussed include: Achieving more product knowledge for wholesalers' salesmen; Service wholesalers developing effective promotional programs for specific products; Improving packing and packaging in the stationers products industry; Developing operating cost guides for service wholesalers; Developing marketing guides for service wholesalers; Educating dealers to buy from service wholesalers.

In conjunction with the convention, 96 rooms on the third and fourth floors of the New York Trade Show building, will contain displays of the latest lines from manufacturers in the International Merchandise Exhibit.

Special personal demonstrations by each manufacturer-exhibitor to wholesalers' salesmen at scheduled times will show them how to explain and promote the manufacturers' products to retailers, and how to help the retailers merchandise them. The exhibit will be open 20 hours, by invitation only, to service wholesalers' salesmen and buyers from the U. S. and Canada.

Further details of the program may be obtained from Donald S. Frey, secretary-treasurer of the Wholesale Stationers' Association, 1609 Sherman ave., Evanston, Ill.

Fire fails to slow work

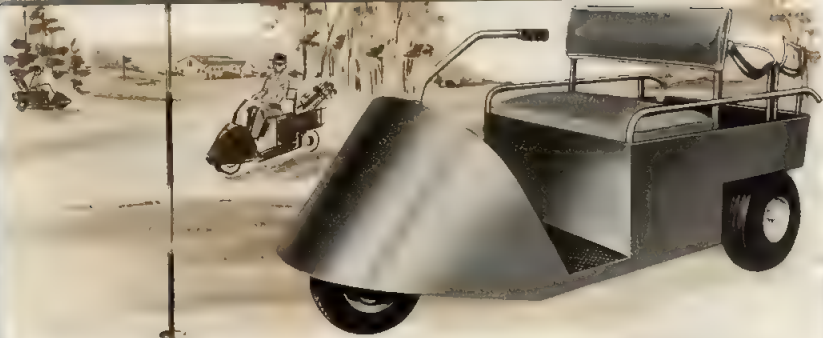

Fire in a warehouse of the Saalfield Publishing Co., Akron, O., early this month did not curtail work at the factory or interfere with deliveries to customers. The company produces children's books and toys.

buy a toy." Piped music also helps.

In keeping with his aim to expose customers to as much merchandise as possible, and because Sol designed the store for semi-self-service, many gondolas are in evidence. Aisles are parallel with the length expanse of toy-displaying walls, so customers will tend to be attracted to every area. And, wherever possible the packaged toy is displayed so its most appealing side is in view. If the package isn't constructed so the shopper can see the toy or the box's contents, Sol puts out a sample without the package, and he makes sure there is plenty of stock packaged and handy nearby for customers to pick up and bring to the check-out counter just inside the store's entrance.

TRAFFIC LOT

By having display counters perpendicular to, instead of parallel with, the aisles, customers are forced to weave in and out more and thus be more exposed to displays.

Noticing that few people ever looked up high enough to admire playthings hung on the walls near ceiling height, little merchandise is displayed anywhere near that area.

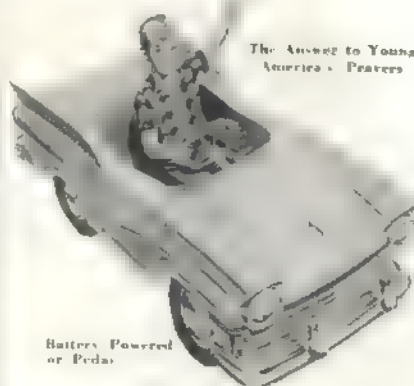

No table or counter is above 30 inches high, and stacked toys like boxed games are lodged directly underneath the displayed sample so all that is necessary is to reach down and replace the purchase.

"That way I have over 200 feet of storage space," says Sol, "and it doesn't hurt to keep the stock on the low-down shelving, since people don't look down anyhow. Besides, you can't sell a boxed toy by simply showing the customer the end of the box." For this reason, most boxed toys receive full front showing.

Butterfield tries to anticipate the demand for certain kinds of playthings, and stock a sufficient number which he feels will be popular sellers. He's always in the market for unusual new toys or specialty items that tie in with something currently publicized, such as comic or character dolls, movie star cowboy outfits and mechanical figures.

"Some toys move slow," he said, "because they lack adult appeal and seem expensive to the salesperson or to one customer may seem to be quite inexpensive to another customer. It is best to let the customer decide whether he feels the toy is expensive rather than planting the idea in the customer's mind that it is too much.

2. Build Up Value Sales of toys are not completed until value exceeds the price in the customer's mind. Some toy salespeople hold that price should be kept from the customer until he has a clear picture of the value. This, they say, makes price seem small when it is quoted.

FROM PRICE TO VALUE

Other toy salespeople feel that it is best to quote the price first and then build up value. This gives the customer a measuring stick for the value and makes it easier for the customer to visualize the value he is getting.

Perhaps a middle ground would be best for most toy salespeople. First, build up value in the customer's mind. Next, quote the price. Then, amplify the value to be sure it exceeds price in the mind of the customer.

Regardless of when the price is quoted in the sale, there is one selling stratagem the successful toy salesperson uses to build up value . . . he prefaces the price with a value building adjective. For instance:

"This sturdy swing and glider is only. . . ."

"Your daughter will enjoy this set of toy dishes for only. . . ."

TAKE THE EDGE OFF

3. Minimize the Price. There are several ways a toy retailer and salesperson can minimize the price quotation. This helps put the emphasis on the value rather than on the price and eliminates the price stumbling block for the salesperson. Here are three specific ways to keep the consideration of price at a minimum:

— "Only" as a preface to price makes the price seem smaller to the customer. This should be used sparingly and sincerely by the toy salesperson to have the greatest effect. When used for the highest-priced toy in the store, it naturally tends to have an insincere ring to the customer.

DON'T STRETCH THE PHRASE

— When a salesperson says "Twenty-nine dollars and ninety-five cents," the price seems larger than when he says "twenty-nine, ninety-five." The customer will fill in the dollars and cents of the quoted price, but the salesperson minimizes the price by leaving the words out of his price quotation.

— Instead of quoting the price for a big-ticket toy like an electric train set at its full price, some salespeople in toy departments having an easy payment plan quote the down payment and monthly payment price. This puts the emphasis on the monthly payment price rather than the full price of the train. It helps to minimize the price and make it seem smaller than the value the customer is receiving.

STANDARD STEEL PIERS

Several new units in waterfront equipment are featured by Standard Steel Products Mfg. Co., 2836 South 96th St., Milwaukee, Wisconsin, manufacturers of steel piers and other steel waterfront equipment and accessories in 1957.

In addition to redesigned models of their Standard Steel Piers, the company has a new floating steel raft or dock, a new hydraulic marina boat lift for larger outboard boats, and a complete line of modern accessories, diving platforms, boat lifts, dry docks, ladders, steps, benches and boat mooring arms.

The new Standard Steel Floating Dock or Raft is designed for use where extra deep shorelines, fluctuating water levels, bottom drop-offs or muddy lake or river bottoms make leg-supported piers impractical. Designed for one-man installation, it consists of a nonkid platform mounted on two sets of twin steel pontoons especially designed to provide load-carrying capacity in excess of 3000 pounds. The basic unit begins at 6' wide by 16' long and may additional length and width can be achieved by adding regular 6' by 8' floating sections.

The new Standard Steel Floating Dock can be used as an anchored free-floating raft, or it can be part of an extended dock, shore-anchored by means of a special hinged approach section which allows free up-and-down movement. As in the case of all "Standard" steel piers, the Floating Dock provides for easy attachment of "Standard" accessories—ladders, steps, benches, mooring arms, diving platforms, life guard towers, and others.

The new heavy duty Marina Boat Lift has been designed to take care of 15' outboard motorboats—up to 800 pounds. The entire unit includes two marina walkways of steel, in non-skid pattern, with telescopic adjustable leg supports, boat cradle of double tubular steel reinforced construction, and a specially designed hydraulic hoist which lifts boat and cradle with a few easy lever strokes.

Right: Hill Marine Specialties, 7422 Belden, Phila. 11, Pa., makes this folding marine oven in stainless steel to fit marine or camp stoves. Heat indicator is provided on the door.

STICKELL CONVERTERS

Stickell Marine Products Company, Baltimore, Md. announces that their complete line of shore power converters is now available through authorized Raytheon marine dealers. These converters change 115-volt AC power available at docksides to two entirely independent boat power circuits: one operates lights, the other fully charges batteries.

All 25 models in the line feature automatic circuit breakers to guard against shorts or overloads; shockproof construction; noise-free operation; rugged design for long, trouble-free service. The converters are free of electrical problems.

Left: Mahara Prod. nets, Box 66, Utopia Station, Flushing 66, N. Y., introduces this new seam reefing and caulking tool for cleaning out old filler and running new cotton into seams. Design prevents the tool from cutting too deep. An adjustable guide controls the depth of seam to be cut out.

old. Will sell all together to same party, as will not separate them."

Charts and graphs usually confuse me, too, especially those that presume to project the facts of the past into prophecies for the future. W. C. Krueger of Rutgers sends me one that, he says, illustrates the folly of being too literal with statistical forecasts. This chart has a line showing how the number of farm workers has declined steadily since 1940, and even faster these last 15 years. One has only to carry the line on down to prove that by 1972 no one at all will be left to work the farms. No one can convince me of that. I'm sure there will always be farms, and where there are farms there is work, and some one is going to have to do it. I learned that quite young.

Can a young man get ahead in these farming times? The Junior Chambers of Commerce each year select "Outstanding Young Farmers" from each state. The average net worth for 46 of the 1957 nominees, when they began farming, less than 10 years ago, was $4,653. Fourteen of them had from nothing to less than $1,000. The average net worth of the 46 now is $64,243. So it appears that some can get ahead, and do.

Every month word comes from some group that it has need of bright young folks, especially those with farm backgrounds. We hear often about the rising demand for scientists and engineers. I know of sales organizations that seek farm-trained youth. Here comes a booklet describing the advantages in pharmacy and its branches. Ten years from now, some one says, half the pharmacists may be women. One of our editors confesses that he once aspired to the partiality of a lady pharmacist, but unsuccessfully; thinks he must have been a drug on her market. Anyway, girls, if you don't want to farm you can take pharmacy. (Old pun, but our best for today.)

In the final paragraph of "The Farmer and His Customers" Ladd Haystead writes: "And say 'good-bye' to a free man, independent on his own acres, beholden to no one but his God, assured of a living if he only worked hard enough. It was a wonderful dream. It did happen. It is passing. Now it belongs to history and the poets." The book is a realistic and sensible discussion of how and why consumers misunderstand farmers. But that last paragraph is a sort of starter.

MURRAY OHIO WHEEL GOODS ON "QUEEN FOR A DAY" SHOW

Jack Bailey, star of radio and television's popular "Queen for a Day" show, poses with one of the "queens" and a Murray Police Cycle. Wheel goods in the extensive Murray Ohio line were among the gifts awarded on the program recently.

POLLACK POSTER PRINT HAS EASTER AND SPRING DISPLAYS

Led off by a vividly colored Easter Bunny five feet high and 3' 4" wide, a new 1957 line of Easter and Spring promotional displays has been prepared by Pollack Poster Print, Inc., 875 Main Street, Buffalo 3, N. Y., and is now ready for prompt delivery.

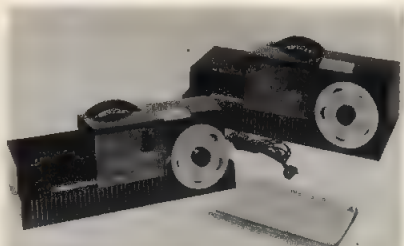

The Giant Bunny is printed on heavy paper in five colors—Easter pink, sky blue, royal purple, brilliant yellow, and touches of deep red. The display is designed for windows, window backdrops or interior walls.

Easter egg displays in single colors matching the multicolored bunny can be ordered individually or with the bunny display as a complete kit of eight different readings. The latter promote the sale of candy, gifts, baskets, flowers, toys, egg dyes, greeting cards and gift wraps. The "eggs" are effective when used either with the Giant Bunny or as departmental markers. Each measures 29" by 19" in size.

Two shades of Erin green spotlight a lively design on Pollack's new St. Patrick's Day streamer. Contrasting white and shell pink round out the color combination for this promotion, which features the reading, "St. Patrick's Day Special." The streamer measures 38" by 14 1/2" in size.

With "Spring Shower of Values" as its theme, Pollack's new general spring promotion is designed for storewide use, with matching 42" by 21" streamers, 19" by 25" by 16 1/4" pennants and 12" by 19" all-purpose toppers available. All these displays may be ordered with an alternate reading of "April Shower of Values." Each carries out a gay springtime "umbrella" theme in red, aqua and rich brown

Tele-Typer Communication Set New Item from Bell Products

A striking new concept in communication devices is Bell Products' herein-illustrated electronic Tele-Typer set. This toy enables children to communicate by means of printed messages from one location to another—house to house, room to room, and so forth.

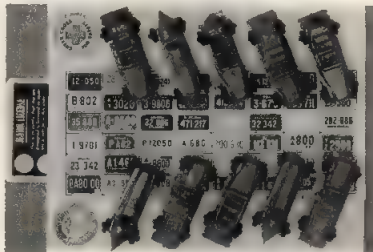

The Tele-Typer Stations, 12" by 6" by 5", operated on ordinary house current through a low-voltage transformer, actually send and receive telegrams. Transmittal and printing are accomplished by remote control. One youngster can send a message to the other station, which will record it even if the second "operator" isn't on hand. When he returns, he sees the message and sends off his reply.

Another brand new Bell item is Dancing Dan, a new kind of action toy equipped with a "mystery mike." When the child sings, whistles or hums into the mike, Dan tip-dances in completely perfect time with the tune.

A third new item, Armored Combat, is a safe-to-play-with action game consisting of two 10-shooter tanks; 10 toy soldiers in different action poses; 10 wooden pellets in poly bags and a scorepad. In playing the game, the youngsters try to shoot down the forces of "the enemy." A target on the bottom of the box offers additional play opportunities.

Plastic Autos and Mechanical Sparkler in Hale-Nass Line

The #239 double-flint Mechanical Sparkler and a bagged assortment of plastic toy autos have been introduced by The Hale-Nass Corporation, who will be exhibiting during the Toy Fair in Room 1056 at the Hotel Sheraton-McAlpin and at the firm's permanent 200 Fifth Avenue showroom, Room 1139.

Well-constructed for long play-life, the new 5 1/2"-long sparkler issues multicolored sparks. It is operated on a plunger that turns a 3"-round red and green plastic-windowed disk. The item can be had in poly bag packaging.

The 10 rubber wheeled plastic cars in assorted colors are bag-packed, three different automobile styles per package. On the four-color card mountings are illustrations of the license plates of every state in the country and a junior driver's license.

Get out a few bales on your farm, break 'em open—let us show you today how Flow Action works

Why wait 'til cutting time?

See the new HAYLINER 68 in action today!

When your hay is ready for cutting, it's pretty late to start shopping for a new baler. This very day, your New Holland dealer can show you what makes the remarkable HAYLINER 68 tick. What makes it different from every other baler on the market. What makes it the greatest baling advance in seventeen years.

We call the BIG change Flow-Action. This is an entirely new baling principle developed by New Holland and found only on the HAYLINER 68. It actually measures the flow of hay into the bale chamber!

With the back panel removed, you can watch what happens when the "68" goes to work. Hay has no sharp corners to turn. No auger. No wadboard. Just a smooth, gentle flowing action from pickup to chamber.

There's never been another baler like it! Before you tie a bale, you owe it to yourself to see the HAYLINER 68. Call your dealer today!

WHAT IS FLOW-ACTION?

It's new! It's different! It's an exclusive on the HAYLINER 68. The surgeless, smooth-running tine bar with light but strong aluminum tines saves precious leaves. Spring-loaded tine bar prevents clogging, knows just how much hay to place in chamber for uniform slices. New Holland Machine Company Division of Sperry Rand Corporation, New Holland, Pennsylvania.

Only New Holland offers two quality baler twines certified for length, strength, uniformity: New Long 10—10,000 ft., 290-lb. tensile strength; New Holland's 9,000-ft. twine with 325-lb. strength of the revived series, nor of the race of 1924 which followed it, but Herb and his friends who had mauguerated it then placed it in the hands of the club which had been organized in protest against racing—and the club and the race have nourished each other, as well as the entire sport of yachting, ever since.

There was in the race of 1924 a Canadian-built schooner named North ern Light, which under the pseudonym of Southseaman became famous as the heroine of the English writer Weston Martyn's first book, Northern Light only distinguished herself by finishing and placing last in the event, but when Martyn returned to England he foregathered with the late George Martin, owner of the Breton-built ex-pilot cutter Jolie Brise, and others, and organized the Ocean Racing Club—now the Royal Ocean Racing Club. Its inaugural event of 1925 was the Fastnet, a 600-odd-mile race Down Channel from the Isle of Wight across the approaches to the Irish Sea to the Fastnet Rock and back to Plymouth. In recognition of his interest and sympathy Herb Stone was made a charter member of the club and was for a time the only member who had not satisfied the initial requirement of racing around the Fastnet Rock. The rule was broadened in 1928 to admit to membership yachtsmen who had sailed in other R.O.R.C. races. (But in America the Cruising Club membership committee still looks askance at applicants for membership who have merely raced to Bermuda.)

The year 1926 was memorable in ocean racing, for in that year Jolie Brise participated in the Bermuda Race and then sailed back home to take part in the Fastnet. The international phase of the sport was further emphasized by participation in the Fastnet of the American schooner Primrose IV which had previously been sailed to England. Neither Primrose IV nor Jolie Brise won, but their performance helped establish the pleasant habit of cruising across the Atlantic in order to race on the other side. Going a step farther—or faster—the American sloop schooner Niña won the trans-Atlantic race to Spain of 1928 and repeated her startling performance in the Fastnet later in the year. In 1931 when six of eight American yachts which had raced from Newport to Plymouth fought their way around the Rock victory again went to an American.

This yacht, the famous yawl Dorade, set a pattern for cruiser racers which, in rig if not in hull form, has been followed for a quarter of a century. Her record was remarkable. Besides the accomplishments already cited she won the Fastnet Race of 1933 and the Honolulu Race of 1936. With such a prototype it is not surprising that Stormy Weather, her successor from the board of Sparkman & Stephens, won the trans-Atlantic race of 1935 from Newport to Bergen, Norway, and then dropped down to Cowes to win that year's Fastnet with only two hours of her 16 hours of time allowance expended. Curiously enough, neither Dorade nor Stormy Weather has won the Bermuda Race, although each has won in her class.

In 1936 when Dorade was about to win the Honolulu Race and Stormy almost won the Bermuda Race I looked around from the deck of the comfortable schooner in which I was sailing to Bermuda and saw what I thought were six Stormy Weathers. They were yawls from this side of the Atlantic or the other and their startling resemblance one to another showed how the comparatively close-winded rig had superseded the schooner rig. Yet in that race Phil Rhodes established his first major achievement as a designer of ocean racing yachts, the cutter Kirawan of his design winning from Stormy.

Ten years later another single-sticker, the sloop Gesture, won the Bermuda Race, but with these two exceptions the yawl rig has been supreme since 1932. That year John Alden's Malabar X did the trick and was immediately followed in the placing order by three other schooners of his design. Last year, of the 86 yachts which finished the latest race of the series, there were 1,001 schooners opposed to 28 single-stickers and 47 yawls. Of 18 ketches, none of which has ever won the event, there were seven finishers.

IT'S BEAM THAT MAKES THE BOAT GO

jam. The darned things bang around in the trunk. Some rare trunks leak from the launching day onward. And they are not essential to the performance.

I should like to needle the architects to investigate means for improvement in what aviation engineers call the lift-drag characteristics of the hull form, which Heaven knows needs improvement, so that we can look forward to improvement in performance of the beamy forms even beyond their present ultimate. We won't get it by acquiescing to the present style pattern. We can get improvement if we realize that the beam is the reason for the built-in go-fist of these newly recognized forms and that there is great room for improvement below the waterline.

The rating rule of the Cruising Club of America seems to have been caught a bit short by these beamy boats at the small end of the size pattern. This fact is wholly beside the argument herewith presented insofar as these beamy boats have demonstrated speed on a boat-for-beamy basis to the chagrin of some of the larger boats and their people.

I strongly hope that those of you who have not as yet sailed in one of these "fat little boats" will have the opportunity of doing so. I have been amazed to sense an apparent difference in behavior of the type off shore. The beamy ones are far more delicate as to sail trim than the normal ones. In a left-over sea they have to be helped over seas by changing the attitude of the hull to the sea as the sea passes beneath. They will jump-roll in a seaway, sensing the beam-approaching sea far earlier than their normal-beamed sisters. They are great fun to sail.

In spite of all the above, let not the owners of the "other" boats despair. Let them merely enter upon a regular sail replacement program; let them race their boats instead of letting their boats race them; let them instruct all hands to keep on their toes day and night, and when the beer can passes, let them take fewer and fewer left hand turns, and when they have done all these things they too will collect their due and just share of pots, kettles, and plaques.

FIFTY YEARS OF OCEAN RACING

racers have received by voice radio barometric information which gives them the position of the permanent North Pacific High as well as other nobars and so have been able to lay courses that should keep them away from calms. The difference of opinion between Trade Wind and Great Circle routes may still persist, but the elapsed times of the contestants have been substantially reduced by the provision of this essential information. Until the permanent Azorean High takes up its abode in Bermuda it is doubtful, however, if daily weather broadcasts will improve the chances of Bermuda racers.

I had never before seen—and am sure I never shall again see—such an assemblage of yachts as gathered off Sarahs Ledge at New London when Herl Stone's efforts, with the cooperation of the Royal Bermuda Yacht Club, were crowned with success and the Bermuda Race of 1923 began. It wasn't so much the size of the fleet—22, which number was more than quadrupled in 1956—as its composition. Of these cruising yachts 17 were schooners and three were yawls, the others being a ketch and a cutter. For those were the days when the schooner rig was the finest expression of speed commensurate with comfort and safety. All in the fleet were gaff-rigged with the exception of the yawl Memory, a converted New York "Forty." and the drifting start displayed a sprinkling of deflated balloons which in retrospect, at least, seemed as ill-fitting as the working sails John Alden's Malabar IV won that race and gave a lift to the fisherman type of schooner which carried it into the early Thirties.

NU-TONE IN-BUILT ... Recessed All-Purpose Food Center

Now! A combination blender, mixer and sharpener on a power unit that fits right into your kitchen counter! Think of it! The three most widely used kitchen appliances conveniently built into your kitchen. And you pay far, far less than you would for all three appliances purchased separately.

Large mixer puts bowl on top where it's easier to use. Double heating action. Large 3 1/2 qt. anodized aluminum bowl. One easy-to-clean basket.

Food blender snaps into place. 6 speeds! Not just one or two. Container is unbreakable, clear sturdy plastic. Rust-proof stainless steel blades. Removable "tunnel insert" for adding foods while blades are moving.

Knife sharpener. Revolutionary design! Hone your blades with flexible discs. No hard stones to wear out blade and ruin steel temper. Works 10 times faster than ordinary sharpeners.

All three appliances operate from one powerful 300-watt motor. Power unit housing fits through neat 10 1/2" x 4 1/2" cut-out in counter-top. Motor housing is 10" long, 4 1/4" wide, 5 1/4" high. And the entire housing is beneath the counter when installed. All you see are stainless steel counter plate, recessed Selecto-Matic Power Drive and recessed speed dial. Nothing pokes up above the level of the counter-top. Nothing gets in your way when the appliances are not in use! Motor has 6 speeds, 16,000 rpm idle on high. Low speed drive approximately 800 rpm idle.

Housing has wiring connections, air discharge ports, removable plate for easy access. The 3-appliance Mixer-Blender-Sharpener combination comes complete with power unit and complete instructions for easy installation.

COMPACT MARINE RADIO TELEPHONE

A new marine radio telephone designed particularly for two-way communications for pleasure craft and work boats, that features ease of operation for transmission and reception on eight crystal-controlled channels, has been announced by Munston Manufacturing & Service, Inc., Beech Street, Lillip, New York.

Transmitter and receiver are mounted in an attractive cabinet that is only 16 1/4" wide, 10 1/2" deep and 8 3/4" high. Power for the transceiver is supplied from an external unit that may be operated from 12, 32 or 110 volt d-c power supply.

The transmitter input of 135 watts to the final power amplifier assures an average of 80 watts or more in the average yacht antenna, ample power for effective transmission to other craft or shore stations up to several hundred miles distant. An antenna peaking meter provides visual indication of power output and transmitter performance.

The Munston MRT-135 radio telephone permits separate operation of the receiver by means of a standby switch, so that battery power may be conserved during the reception of broadcast programs. The receiver includes a tuned radio frequency amplifier design to provide maximum sensitivity for weak signals and the rejection of image effects during evening.

Silver Clippers

COMMEMORATING BARBOUR'S SILVER ANNIVERSARY

THE PACESETTERS FOR '57

Bar none, these beautiful quality-craft are the most advanced in Barbour's history. The new Silver Clipper series, with its long list of standard equipment including all chrome lights and chocks, cleats and bumper guard, a self-draining cockpit and motor well, cushions and Plexiglas wraparound wind-shield; plus such available optional features as matching color and cushions, canopy top, opening windshield, add up to a boat that's styled to stand out . . . and built to stand up.

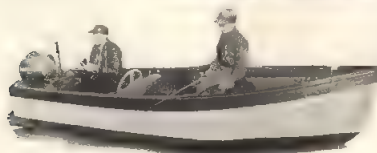

16' SILVER CLIPPER

Measure by any standards you wish, you'll find this 16'3" model (right) with its 63" beam brimful of all-around performance and beauty and soundly engineered for strength and safety. Standard and optional equipment are the same as for the 19' Silver Clipper above. There's a full measure of fun and comfort built in every Barbour boat.

19' SILVER CLIPPER

There's comfort to spare in the 19'2" by 6'6" capacity of this 19' Silver Clipper, above. The Clippers are lapstrake constructed with mahogany planking and oak keels, chines and bottom. Single or double runner or inboard 60 to 215 hp. No wonder boatmen look to Barbour.

15' Walk-Thru VACATIONER

A multi-purposed boat with an interior that's both smart and sensible. Walk-thru seats end annoying 'seat-hopping.' Has removable solid floorboards, extra-wide mahogany seats, approved salt-water hardware, plus a host of other features.

14' Center Deck UTILITY

The accent is on economy without sacrifice of quality. Easy handling and dry running even at top speeds. Comfortably seats five to six persons with ample storage space for gear.

Want comfort

like this?

Even at racing speeds, you'll enjoy amazing comfort in your 1957 PM FLYING CLIPPER

When you open the throttle on a 1957 PM Flying Clipper, you'll wonder what happened to the customary pounding at the bow. Here's exactly what happened. PM's unique "Flex Ride Action" allows full play to the natural resilience of the birch plywood hull, strengthened by a sturdy keelson and two full-length sister-keels. And with "Side Suspension Seating," there are no seats or bulkheads to impair resilience. Shocks are absorbed to a degree that will amaze you!

All this spells greater safety, too. And the new 1957 PM Flying Clippers, in their tasteful color combinations, still offer welcome freedom from maintenance worries. There's never a need for caulking or puttying. Ask your PM dealer to show you sportsmen, sport fishers, runabouts and cruisers... in four popular lengths and in standard, deluxe and custom finishes. You'll find Flying Clippers "the greatest value in the small boat field."

Dealers: PM Flying Clippers are top performers in sales, too! Write for name and address of your distributor.

Partee Mahogany Strip Boats

Bennett Brothers is proud to announce Partee Boats for the coming year. A line of outboard boats in class of materials and construction as luxury cruisers. All the planking, decking and seats is of selected air dried, clear African MAHOGANY.

APPALACHIAN OAK is used in the ribs, keel, gunwales, seat risers, knees, stow, motor board, cleats, stringers and spray rails, truly a construction that is far superior to any outboard boat ever before offered.

As an added feature the CLIPPER, STANDARD CLIPPER, and DELUXE CLIPPER as well as the PLAYBOY and SUPERCRAFT have the bottoms covered from spray rail to spray rail with fiber glass. Fiber glass covering improves the water-tightness, strength, speed and life of a boat to which it is applied. It also eliminates the necessity of repainting the bottom, as the color is impregnated into the material. The area above the spray rails is triple coated with Marine Spar Varnish.

14-Foot Playboy Shown in Action

Partee Boats are built for safety, speed, beauty, performance. Safe, because they have a semi-V Bottom with rocker keels which gives the boat more width at the bow, thereby increasing its buoyancy so that it will ride over a wave instead of cutting through it. Another advantage of this increased width is that the boat comes into a plane much quicker. Speed with a 14 foot model has been clocked with a 25 horse power motor at nearly 40 MPH. Transom pitch has been scientifically set according to OBC and the keel is tapered at the transom to eliminate cavitation. Every plank is screw fastened to every rib.

strengthen the caliber of the Fowle Trophy field. These produced competition which saw the losing team win at least one race in the majority of 14 matches, both semifinals and two other matches went the full distance. In winning the title, Tech's overall mark was only 10-5, which speaks for the competition, but N.E.I.S.A. will still work to improve the caliber of the racing.

M.I.T., in winning, beat Tufts, 3-1, Brown, 3-2, and Bowdoin, 4-2, while the runner-up team scored 3-1 over Harvard and 3-2 against Northeastern. Brown beat Northeastern for third place.

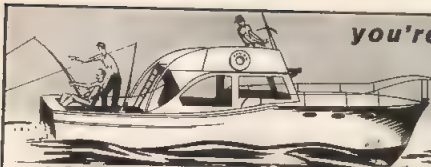

PACIFIC COAST. Veteran Tom Ramsey, pairing with Doug Hubert, won for Occidental the Fall Invitational to which their college played host, Nov. 4, at the Alamitos Bay Y.C. Long Beach, Calif. Ramsey won all eight races in Div. A as U.C.L.A.'s Lewis Bedford was capturing Div. B honors with seven firsts and a second. Under a low-point score, Occidental prevailed 23½-31½ as Claremont and Orange Coast tied for third. . . . Pacific Coast Secretary Edward Dillingham reports college sailing interest on the Coast the strongest in several years this fall. . . . A new recruit is anticipated in Long Beach City College.

MIDDLE ATLANTIC. A team race sail-off was required to settle the Middle Atlantic I.S.A.'s Associate Member Championship, held at Kings Point, Nov. 3-4. After six spirited races in an eight-knot northeaster, Swarthmore and Fordham tied with 59 points with Hofstra tallying 55 and Columbia 50 in the six-college field. . . . William Poole, who had tied with Jim King of Fordham for high point honors, combined with Martin Gidcoose to win a team-race sail-off for the Pennsylvania school. . . . The Kings Point team won a pentagonal event under Penn auspices at Cooper River, Nov. 3, by 32-31 over Lehigh with Drexel third at 28. Heavy rain plus wind produced high water which nearly drowned out the event, with the crews forced to wade around the landing stages in near freezing temperatures. Jim McCoy and Neal Brown of Webb captured a triangular at Glen Cove with six points to spare over Hofstra, Oct. 20.

MIDWEST: Judie Hancock and Peggy Feld of host Ohio Wesleyan won the Midwest Collegiate S.A. Women's Championship for the French Trophy in light airs on the Scioto River, Nov. 3-4. Sailing Tech dinghies, they outscored Wisconsin 128-111 as Judie Hancock easily won high point honors by topping Division B with five firsts and three seconds for 69 points. Her team mate, Miss Feld, was outscored in Division A by Carla Kelly of Wisconsin, 59-57, as Michigan State finished with 99, Ohio State 92, and Michigan 83 in an eight-team event marked by excellent sportsmanship. . . . Michigan State won its Fall Invitational on Lake Lansing, Oct. 27-28, by nine points over Wooster as conditions varied from light and shifty on Saturday to strong southerly winds on Sunday. Sailing Penguins, the victorious Spartans used ten skippers in 16 races. High point skipper was Stewart Kent of Cincinnati with 29 points in Division A as against 27 for Paul Heeman of Michigan.

NEW ENGLAND: Coast Guard's skippers James Walker and Michael Johnson, leading their respective divisions with Walker high point at 42 points, won a freshman hexagonal on the Thames from Yale by 78-63 as W.P.I. shaded Trinity for third, Oct. 21. . . . Boston U. prefaced triumphs in the Lane Trophy in New England and the Middle Atlantic's War Memorial Trophy at Annapolis, by upsetting host Brown in a pentagonal on the Seekonk, Oct. 21, 51-49, with Holy Cross third, as "Hatch" Brown and Wally Everest each edged Bear rivals, Tom Hazelhurst and John Quinn, by one point. . . . Brown's freshmen outscored M.I.T., 3-0, in their Oct. 20th dual, as Middlebury defeated St. Michael's, 3-1, in a series of match races. On the Thames, Coast Guard scored two triumphs with Ernie Bader winning a Raven hexagonal, 33-28, over Rhode work for yourself, use bronze screws driven from the battens into the planking.

The deck beams will be made from $\frac{3}{4}$ " by $1\frac{3}{4}$ " spruce, or some other light weight, strong wood. The crown shown on the plans is $2\frac{1}{4}$ " in 7'. Set the beams as shown on the deck plan, which is $16\frac{1}{2}$ " center-to-center. The beams will be fastened to the edge of the clamps with long galvanized wire nails; do not attempt to fasten to the frame heads.

Use $\frac{3}{8}$ " by 3" white cedar for the clamps with the ends tapered to about 2". These members must be made from a spiling and will not be straight. It is next to impossible to fit the clamps from straight stock. The fastenings here will be bronze screws, two screws to each frame. And notice the breasthook at the stem head, and quarter knees at the stern.

Deck Laid of White Cedar

Lay the deck with $\frac{3}{4}$ " by about 3" wide tongue-and-groove white cedar. This should be V-d on the under side. Fasten with galvanized wire nails; slightly countersink the heads. The deck will be covered with 6-ounce canvas, and this should be in a single piece. Turn down edges over the sheer strike and fasten with copper tacks. Stretch tightly and dry over paint which has thoroughly dried on the deck, then paint the canvas.

The coamings, windbreak, and interior joiner work will be very easy to make and put in place as compared to the boat itself. Excepting for the windbreak frame I would advise using white cedar for all these portions of the boat; cedar is strong, easily worked, is not prone to rot and whether painted or varnished is an excellent wood for any part of a boat.

We now come to a parting for a month or more. When we meet again, Shipmates, the design will be another shipshape and practical boat.

Better Marinas Mean More Boating

INCREASED POWER BY SUPERCHARGING

While many users of gasoline engines are content with the power output of their engines, there are numerous applications, such as in high speed racing, where the absolute maximum output of an engine is desired. An axial flow supercharger invented by Norman R. Latham, head of the Latham Manufacturing Company, West Palm Beach, Florida, is now being produced and will soon be available for application to racing engines as used in boats. As available at the present time, the superchargers are designed for application to some of the more popular automotive engines, such as the Ford, Mercury, Chevrolet, Cadillac and others. Since many of these engines are also used in fast boats, the superchargers can be applied without material change.

The results of tests made on a Ford V-8 are interesting and demonstrate the possibilities of the Supercharger. The test engine was a new 292 cubic inch V-8 with standard compression ratio of 8 to 1. It was completely stock. Its initial run was made without supercharger in order to secure data as to its normal performance. Starting at 2,000 revolutions, the speed was increased by 500 increments until 5,000 revolutions was reached which was past peak power. It developed 163 hp at 4,400 revolutions, its maximum.

After the Latham supercharger kit was installed, the tests were repeated. The supercharger is driven by means of a flat belt with a ratio of 5.17 to 1 so that at 5,000 revolutions, the supercharger was turning at 25,850 rpm. In this test, with the supercharger, 210 hp were developed at 5,000 rpm and at lesser speeds, 200 hp at 4,000; 163 hp at 3,000, and 103 at 2,000. This indicated an increase of 60 hp or 40 percent at 5,000 revolutions. The torque curve in the tests also showed a similar and substantial increase. From the results of the tests it is quite reasonable to assume that the engine with the supercharger could produce an honest sustained 280 brake horsepower on gasoline.

in your 1957 PM FLYING CLIPPER*

When you open the throttle on a 1957 PM Flying Clipper, you'll wonder what happened to the customary pounding at the bow. Here's exactly what happened: PM's unique "Flex Ride Action" allows full play to the natural resilience of the birch plywood hull, strengthened by a sturdy keelson and two full-length sister-keels. And with "Side Suspension Seating," there are no seats or bulkheads to impair resilience. Shocks are absorbed to a degree that will amaze you!

All this spells greater safety, too. And the new 1957 PM Flying Clippers, in their tasteful color combinations, still offer welcome freedom from maintenance worries. There's never a need for caulking or puttying. Ask your PM dealer to show you sportsmen, sport fishers, runabouts and cruisers... in four popular lengths and in standard, deluxe and custom finishes. You'll find Flying Clippers "the greatest value in the small boat field."

Dealers: PM Flying Clippers are top performers in sales, too! Write for name and address of your distributor.

Are dwarf hybrids panning out?

SHORT STALKS, big ears. This is dwarf 602—which averaged 122 bu. an acre for Herman Shelhamer, Luzerne Co. Pa.

and Pennsylvania. All told, these farm test plots added up to about 40 acres.

"The dwarf outyielded normal 602 in 60% of these tests," says Matthews. "In 24%, the yields were equal and in the remaining 16% of the comparisons, the dwarf averaged 9% less. Where the dwarf yielded less, it was a single row growing in the shade of normal 602."

R. L. Riba, Northrup, King & Co. corn breeder, says: "We have a 100-day hybrid that yields slightly less than normal hybrids under identical conditions. If planted thicker, it might possibly outyield normal hybrids in harvested corn per acre because of less lodging and fewer dropped ears."

The trend is toward shorter corn. But not everyone is sold on dwarfs.

"We believe that short, low-eared normal varieties will give farmers all the advantages of dwarfs with more consistent yields," says Karl Jarvis, Pioneer Hi-Bred Corn Co., Johnston, Iowa.

Says Sherrett Chase, corn breeder with the DeKalb Agricultural Association, DeKalb, Ill.: "We're interested in the possibilities but do not believe that dwarf corn will answer the major problems of corn production."

Says Leon Steele, director of research for Funk Bros. Seed Co. at Bloomington, Ill.: "Our dwarf yields are 20% to 25% below normal hybrids."

Adds Steele: "Short stalks are no guarantee of standability because dwarf plants can still have stalk rot, root rot and poor anchorage. If dwarf hybrids can be developed that will give higher yields on standing stalks that can be harvested to better advantage, then dwarf corn might be the corn of the future."

Skeptics also point out that late-season weeds are a problem because dwarfs don't shade the ground enough.

Illinois researcher Leng and others feel that dwarf hybrids will be most useful in areas where normal hybrids grow too tall with ears too high and lodging is a perennial problem.

They believe dwarf corn will also appeal to farmers who: 1. sprinkle irrigate corn; 2. want silage with a higher corn content; 3. sell hunting privileges, and 4. use corn for a nurse crop. End

*A front door
you'll use*

How to make that entrance do the job it was intended to do

IF YOUR farm house is over 20 years old, you've probably got a seldom-used front entrance facing the road. Whether you like it or not, your visitors drive right on past it to your back door!

Many farm families, however, are finding that the way to get guests to enter the company part of the house is to put a new "front" door on the driveway side, says Keith Hinchcliff, farm housing specialist at the University of Illinois.

"When moving the front door, you'll probably need to rearrange your present floor plan to get an efficient traffic pattern," Hinchcliff points out. "Try to locate the new entrance between the work and living areas of the house. This will save tramping across the living room to get to other parts of the house."

To encourage visitors to use the new entrance focus attention on it and make it inviting. Hinchcliff advises, "One way is to extend the roof overhanging over the door or use a flat projection, as shown in the drawings. Painting the door with a bright accent color also helps. So does the arrangement of flowers and shrubs."

What happens to the old front door and porch? Here are two suggestions made by Hinchcliff:

1. Remove the porch and replace the door with a window. So-called "strip" windows (as shown in the drawings) are both attractive and useful. They give privacy from the road and provide more wall space for furniture arrangements.

2. Leave the door, but replace the porch with a terrace. A terrace running the width of the house will add a long horizontal line at the base of the house, making it look lower. End plate and she jumped. Luke was on the other side of her, and he must have left when the ushers marched down with the collection. Everybody stands up then and he might have gone out on the other aisle. All I know was when they were through singing the doxology and had sat down—he was gone.

After that the church started to warm up. I wondered whether it was the furnace or just me worrying about what Luke was up to now. Letty seemed to feel it too, because she took off her coat. I couldn't concentrate on Reverend Hamilton's sermon either, wondering what would happen next.

It happened when they were singing the closing hymn. It was, "Who is on the Lord's Side." and I figured it wasn't Luke because I heard that falsetto voice somewhere off in the distance, yelling, "Help! Fire!"

Letty heard it too and we both slipped out the swing door together. She went through Fellowship Hall and I swung down into the basement.

HE WASN'T in the basement. I came up the back way and saw the smoke edging up from the roof and called the Fire Department and went to look for Luke. I saw water spilled on the kitchen floor and followed it. It led to the little room off the kitchen where the women fix salads and desserts for church suppers. There was a little cubby hole in the ceiling that led to the attic—and there was Luke. He was stuck fast in that little cubby hole.

Letty was on a step ladder grabbing at his waving legs. His voice was kind of muffled. It sounded like he said, "Don't pull me! Give me a push! The fire's up here!"

"Honey, you'll suffocate in that smoke," she pleaded and pulled. All she got was his pants. I saw his long shanks vanish in that cubby hole like a snake going into a gopher hole. There was a tinnny rattle and what looked like a bucket of water came down that cubby hole. She couldn't get out of the way on that ladder, and it caught her square!

IF I EVER SAW A mad woman it was Letty Abisher. I closed the door softly—figuring from here on it was strictly a family affair. If Luke was dumb enough to think he could put out a roof fire from the inside with a bucket of water, and got his wife instead, it was none of my business.

I went outside. The firemen were there and had no trouble putting out the fire. It was just some leaves that had gathered in a valley that got touched off by a spark from the chimney.

I drifted back inside to tell Luke that the fire was out, but stopped outside when I heard conversation. "Please, Honey, throw me my pants," I heard Luke pleading.

"Not before you promise, Luke Abisher," she said firmly. "I promise," (Continued on page 94)

"THE PERMANENT DENTURE RELIEVER"

pleasing. Sounded like an old-time parlor organ.

After a week of spare-time hunting down among its innards, I found a disconnected plug dangling around. I plugged it into the only socket I could find nearby, went back to the bench and turned on the juice.

Shades of Mendelssohn! I got the most beautiful tones out of that junky-looking thing. It was wonderful! I mean the tone was, not my playing. To find the correct foot pedals I had to take off my left shoe and feel around among 32 pedals.

Since then I've spent hours practicing on that organ, have even learned to find the pedals with my shoes on. When we have a heavy rain-storm now, I go out in my shop, shut the doors, turn up the volume to full, and boy! Can that organ make the windows rattle! When it's raining hard I know the neighbors can't hear me, I really have fun!

Florida is a great place to live. No doubt about it, especially for farmers who like to see things grow. When we first came, people gave us plants, bushes, bulbs and cuttings. We just stuck them in the ground anywhere and how they grew!

Yes, we're partial to Florida, but we know it isn't just the sunny climate that has changed our whole outlook. It was shaking up our daily routine to let in new friends and new experiences. Some folks manage to do it right where they've always lived, and I guess we could have done some of it back in Ohio. But we've had to do it here.

We're not getting rich at this work, although the income is satisfactory. What surprises me is that I'm having more enjoyment out of life at 65 than I did at 45. I guess it's the absence of boredom that does it. I'm busy and never know what the next phone call will offer.

Some mornings I wake up with that same tingle of boyhood days—anticipation of the circus coming to town, of school vacation about to start, of a picnic coming up. That tingle is something I hardly expected to have again. You can't buy it. It's worth a lot to me, so I count it as part of my income. End

† First in Firearms Engineering—in the last decade Remington has developed more guns of new, advanced design than any other quarter in the world.

"Woodmaster" "Gammaster" are Reg. U. S. Pat. Off. by Remington Arms Company, Inc., Bridgeport 2, Conn.

"IT'S GOOD HOG FEED," says Mahlon Detter. Caught with wet corn last fall, he made ear corn silage and stored it in this temporary silo.

FARMERS who store their ear corn in a silo instead of a crib have some good things to say about it:

- ▶ Ear corn silage makes even better feed than dry ground ear corn.
- ▶ You get practically all the corn there is because you pick early—before any ears have a chance to blow off or drop off. Best time to harvest is right after the ears mature—when they're still 30% to 35% moisture.
- ▶ You save time and work. Put up as silage, the corn is all ground and ready to feed. "Ear corn silage saves 'half a hired man' in our feeding operation," says E. J. Neer & Son.
- ▶ It's a good way to salvage a crop caught by an early frost.

The feed is hard to beat. For example, Purdue University scientists picked corn on September 26, 1956 when it tested 32½% moisture. They ran the wet ears through a hammer mill, blew the silage into an air-tight silo.

Another part of the field was picked in late October when it tested 15½% moisture and stored in a crib.

In feeding tests, 36 fattening heifers gained just as fast and just as much on the ear corn silage as another lot did on dry ground ear corn from the crib.

What's more, they did it on 10% less corn if you figure the silage on a dry matter basis. With the ear corn silage, each pound of gain cost 17.4¢. With the dry corn, the gain cost 18.4¢.

You can store ear corn silage in practically any kind of silo—upright, trench, bunker. You'll need to reinforce concrete or tile silos with extra hoops, however. The chopped or ground-up ears are a lot heavier than ordinary corn silage.

DUTCH PLUM CAKE

Neat rows of purple-blue fruit crown this easy-to-fix pudding cake

$\frac{3}{4}$ c. sugar
 $\frac{1}{4}$ c. flour
 $\frac{1}{4}$ c. butter or margarine
 $1\frac{1}{2}$ c. sifted flour
2 tsp. baking powder
 $\frac{1}{2}$ tsp. salt
6 tbsp. sugar
 $\frac{1}{2}$ tsp. grated lemon rind
 $\frac{1}{4}$ c. shortening
1 egg, beaten
 $\frac{1}{4}$ c. milk
1 tbsp. melted butter or margarine

12 to 16 ripe prune plums

1 tbsp. lemon juice

- Mix together sugar and $\frac{1}{4}$ c. flour. Cut in butter to make fine crumbs. Set aside.
- Sift flour; measure $1\frac{1}{2}$ c.; sift again with baking powder, salt and 6 tbsp. sugar. Add lemon rind and cut in shortening with pastry blender until mixture resembles coarse corn meal.
- Add egg and milk. Stir just enough to moisten dry ingredients. Spread dough out evenly into an 8 x 8-inch greased pan. Brush top with melted butter.
- Wash and dry prune plums. Cut in halves. Remove pits. Press four rows of halved plums, skin-side down, on dough; let them overlap a little. Leave a little space between the rows. The number it takes will depend on the size of plums.
- Sprinkle with lemon juice, then with sugar-flour-butter mixture.
- Bake in moderate oven (375°) 45 minutes. Serve warm with sweetened whipped cream. Makes 6 servings.

Special Counter Display Offered By Chicago Roller Skate Co.

This colorful counter display tempts customers to spin the wheels of the skates, which are securely "planted" in the platform. Children can't resist spinning the wheels and parents can't help observing the construction. This display is termed so simple to assemble even a child can do it, yet so sturdy that only drastic action can upset it. The slots holding the skates are designed to fit most models in the Chicago line.

Size of the display is 18" by 13 1/4" by 8". It is free on request from the Chicago Roller Skate Company, 4450 West Lake Street, Chicago 24.

Two American Toymakers Take Turns Hosting British Toyman

Mr. Arnold and guest Powell-Jones

Barry Powell-Jones, managing director of Summit Games, Ltd., Leeds, England recently passed through New York City on his way back to home shores after spending a weekend in Tennessee with John Tigrett of Tigrett Industries. Both men joined in opening the pigeon-shooting season there, Mr. Powell-Jones bagging the first bird.

While in New York the English toy manufacturer met with designer Arnold Arnold and with the management of PLAYTHINGS for a discussion of the American toy industry.

Mr. Powell-Jones, a native of Wales, had a brief fling at a stage career, then served, at the age of 21, as a captain in the Indian Army training jungle fighters for the Burma campaign. Upon his return to civilian life, he entered the English toy trade with Summit Games. The latter manufactures a number of items under licenses from U. S. toymakers.

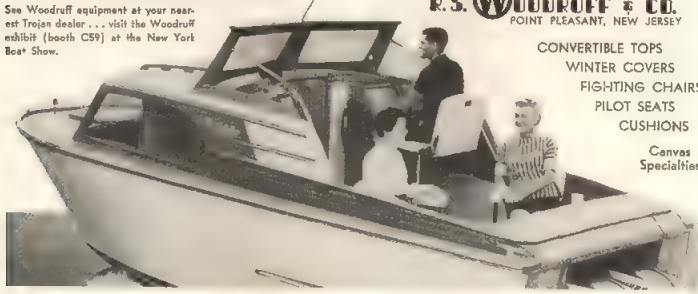

Among other things, Mr. Powell-Jones was responsible for the first All British International Tiddly-Winks Championship to be held in London.

STAY-TITE PRODUCTS

A new liquid neoprene sealer has been developed by Stay-Tite Products Company, Inc., Cleveland 4, Ohio. The new product, called All Seal, comes in white, black and mahogany colors.

Because of its neoprene base, All Seal is not harmed by water, gasoline, oil, or sunlight. It is recommended as a wood-to-wood adhesive and a sealer in building and repairing boats. All Seal sands readily to clean up any excessive applications.

TEMPO

Aiding the boating enthusiasts to make easy the job of cleaning leather, vinyl and canvas, Tempo Products Company, 6515 Carnegie Ave., Cleveland 3, Ohio, announces the addition to their marine line a new product, the Tempo Instant Spray Upholstery Cleaner. It does the job by just spraying on and wiping off with a damp sponge. Another new product, Chrome Protector added to the line, guaranteed to stop rust and corrosion and at the same time provide protection for chrome, nickel, copper, brass, aluminum and silver against rust and salt water corrosion. This new crystal clear protector is easy to spray on and can easily be removed.

Also added to the line are the multi-hued 1957 colors in factory approved finishes for Johnson, Evinrude, Scott-Atwater, Mercury, Gale Bucooneer, Sea King, Sea Bee, West Bend and Elgin outboard motors.

MARKER-BOY

Insurance against the loss of a boat should it by any chance founder, can be provided by the simple installation of a Marker-Boy. It consists of two main sections, the float housing which contains the release mechanism and line, and the float. When installed the float is sealed in the housing with a special gasket to keep it from moving.

Should your boat founder, the Marker-Boy will automatically rise to the surface carrying a line attached to the boat. The position of the boat is thus assured, so that there will be no loss of time in a costly search. The unit is made of the best quality materials, requires no service, and is always ready to function should the emergency arise. Marker-Boys are made at 3311 Hill Station, Augusta, Georgia, from whom descriptive literature can be obtained.

FERRIS ANODES

For 1957 the Ferris Corporation is featuring a completely new type of anode which will be trade-named, The Ferris Feather-Weight Anode. This product, is made of a special alloy, called Magalloy which has been developed by one of the country's largest metallurgical firms. This product has been laboratory tested and has been proven in actual practical use on all types of vessels from the largest liners to the smallest yachts. It will be supplied in forms such as collars, teardrops and plates.

GROVER PRODUCTS

One of the items of equipment called for on all boats is an audible signal horn. A newly developed item in this line is the Mighty Midget, by Grover Products Company, Los Angeles 15, California. It operates from a pressurized easily replaceable can and produces a powerful blast which can be heard for long distances. The unit is light in weight, and can be easily carried about.

Thus little horn is only one of a wide variety of air horns, compressors, valves, and allied equipment which the company manufactures.

MADISON HITCH

The Madison Outboard Hitch, an improved hookup method for water skis and aquaplanes, is now available in seven models to fit almost all popular outboard motors.

The hitch provides a safer and easier way to attach tow lines since it attaches directly to the motor shaft. This protects the transom of the boat, assures centered pull and keeps tow lines out of the boat. Use of the hitch will not affect power and steering of the boat and motor.

Made of rust-proof metal, the Madison Outboard Hitch is rubber lined to protect motor shaft and assure snug fit. It attaches quickly to motor and tow line. It is available from dealers or directly from the manufacturer, The Madison Marine Company, Brauerd, Minnesota.

Poetry

Wife's Song

Some women's hearts beat faster
At singers on TV
Or handsome movie-stars but, oh,
The man who'll always be
My hero is the one who helps
With dishes after supper,
And who, when babies cry at night,
Is the better-upper!

—Elizabeth-Ellen Long

We Often Forget

We speak of them as heroes, pioneers,
Who marked the lonely pathway to the West.
We recollect their courage, letting years
Add lustre to only what was proud and best.
We forget their humanness . . . the little things,
Like blistered feet, the summer sun that burned
Their cheek and back; the sight of circling wings,
And alien mountains where the long trail turned.
We often, too, forget that sorrow's blade
Could pierce their hearts as quickly as our own.
We forget their grief at a swiftly made Small grave where no familiar flower had grown;
How, seeing the desert, lonely and windswept,
They thought of gardens and of home . . .
and wept.

—Christie Lund Coles

Soliloquy

I wonder if the gay who coined
That priceless little phrase,
"The patter of small feet," had kids
To brighten up his days.

My darling's feet scuff, scrape, and stomp,
Rattle, bang and clatter,
But in all the time I've heard them,
Never did they patter.

—Jessie Lancaster

Wider Skies

Though science, pondering on a super-nova,
May challenge the legend thunder of Jehovah,
It cancels God no more than the mountaintop.
Cancels the heavens as they seem to drop
Stars to our fingertips. Shall we with eyes
Permitted to scan a wider range of skies Grow faithless now merely from being taught
That God is vastly bigger than we'd thought!

—Georgie Galbraith

"We've gotten an average of 2% more fat laid in carcasses of stilbesterol-treated steers when they were fed antibiotics," he said. "The marbling has been better. And we have rather consistently averaged faster gains over and above stilbesterol alone. Apparently antibiotics add something."

"So if you're feeding for market top or have a sensitive grading situation you may find it to your advantage to feed an antibiotic when you use stilbesterol. We feed 80 milligrams daily to our feedlot cattle at Purdue."

F. X. Gassner of Colorado State University reported enthusiastically on tests with 30,000 head of cattle using combinations of male and female hormones in a paste preparation for implanting.

"These combinations are better than anything else we've seen so far," Gassner declared. "Carcass quality of steers has been as good or better than control animals, dressing percentage has usually been 1% to 2% higher. Feeding time to reach grade has been cut an average of 15%. Feed conversion has stepped up from an average 11 to 1 on controls to 7 or 8 to 1 on the treated animals. There have been no side effects."

Peter Tumbledown

Peter Tumbledown was so upset as to be practically demoralized over the size of the President's $72 billion budget. The only solution Peter could see was to cut the value of the dollar in half again, so as to reduce the budget to a mere $36 billion. If Congress won't do this, said Peter, I'm through. Meanwhile Peter's own budget, such as it is, is in worse shape than Ike's. It looks very much as if Mrs. T. will have to pay the taxes again.

Will State Controls Help Dairymen?

Is state milk price control—from cow to doorstep—the answer to milk's problems? The answer, apparently, depends on your experience with this kind of pricing.

A few midwestern states who don't have state milk price control are trying to get it. Some other states who do have it are openly agitating to get rid of it.

► Indiana has just come close to passing a price-fixing bill. It passed the Senate but was killed by the House. Opponents called it a "little OPA."

► Ohio is considering one bill now to set minimum farm prices only. Backed by the Ohio Farm Bureau and the Ohio Milk Producers Federation, it would establish a farm price—based on the cost of production—in areas where farmers voted for such a marketing set-up. Another bill has been introduced in Ohio that would set retail prices and require the retailer to post these prices.

► Minnesota is holding "hearings" on a price control bill. Main pressure comes from labor unions—probably because increased store sales have been responsible for 2,000 milk routes being dropped in the past few years.

► Missouri is also considering a bill which would set prices at farms, wholesale and retail.

► Michigan is considering a bill to set prices across the board. It is backed by the Michigan Milk Producers (MMPA). Glenn Lake, president of MMPA, charges that Federal Orders are "cumbersome and that it takes four to six months to get a price change."

Among the 15 states that have state price control, this is happening:

- New Hampshire's governor has recommended to the legislature that retail milk price control be abolished by July 1 (11 states control retail prices).

- Rhode Island is considering a bill to abolish the retail and wholesale price-fixing powers of the State Milk Control Board.

- Virginia's State Milk Commission has had the embarrassment of turning down a request of one milk distributor to sell milk in the Richmond area for 78 cents a gallon. This would be 16 cents a gallon cheaper than the present state minimum price.

- The Massachusetts governor told his legislature recently that he hoped it would review all their milk laws and "then legislate with a view to protecting the dairy farmer and the consumer, and let the dairies and dealers enjoy the benefits of reasonable competition."

members. Houck says that he has handled only money enough in 1957 to account for 40,000 members.

Barnes says that of approximately $79,000 collected by the organization in 1957, about $33,000 has been paid to directors and officers to run the NFO. "An organization has got to do something for the members it represents, and so far the NFO has done nothing but try to collect dues. That's another reason why I resigned," Barnes said.

What the Plowing Champions Used

You've probably already heard who won the National and World Plowing Contests at Peebles, Ohio last week. But do you know what they won with?

You probably can't see it at your local machinery dealer, but the new world's champion Willem De Lint, Holland, used a Ransomes Litrac plow. He pulled it with a Fordson Major Diesel.

Lawrence Goettmoller, Ohio farmer who again won the national level land plowing match and placed ninth in world competition, used an International Harvester No. 8, Little Genius.

National contour winner, Duane Mootz, another Ohioan, plowed with a John Deere No. 44. Last year's contour winner John Daniels, Illinois, was the second U.S. entry in the world event. He sliced furrows with an Oliver No. 4240, placed 21st.

"If those foreigners don't plow any faster than that, it's no wonder they're short of food. They'd never get the land broke," quipped one farmer. But they had to go slow to please the eagle-eye judges who watched for uncovered stubble, loose seedbed and for the depth and straightness of the furrows. End

$10,000 Contest Closes October 31

Better hurry and send in your completed entry for the $10,000 Home Improvement Contest, sponsored by FARM JOURNAL and the National Lumber Manufacturers Association.

The contest closes Oct. 31. The completed entry form and other material required for entering must be post-marked no later than midnight of that date.

Any remodeling project, no matter how small, is eligible for one of the 48 cash awards.

NEW ECONOMY You'll notice you're getting a new standard of gas economy from all your engines when you replace worn plugs with new sets of Champions. That's because worn plugs often misfire, wasting fuel—while full-firing, 5-rib Champions fire every drop. Why not install them now?

Now is the time to make your farm engines 4 ways newer with Champion Spark Plugs

NEW HORSEPOWER

Get "new tractor" power in your old tractor—and in all your engines—by replacing power-wasting old plugs with Champions. Tests in autos proved that changing worn, misfiring plugs for Champions increases power substantially.

NEW QUICK STARTING

To get race-car response when starting your engines, put in Champions. The exclusive 5-rib design cuts flashover shorting, gives quick, battery-saving starts every time. Tests showed new Champions averaged 33% faster in starting.

NEW ENGINE PROTECTION

The fair's old-car parade shows what good care can do to make cars last. Good care for your engines includes replacing misfiring, gas-dripping plugs with full-firing Champions to keep raw gas from diluting protective engine oil.

Full-firing 5-rib

CHAMPION

SPARK PLUGS

4 good reasons for putting new Champion Spark Plugs in all your farm engines

1. MORE USEFUL ROAD HORSEPOWER: Loads like this call for plenty of power. Tests show that new Champions—replacing plugs that have gone about 10 000 miles— increase useful road horsepower an average of 21%.

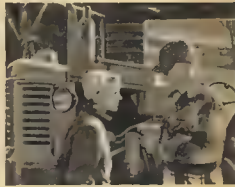

2. BETTER ENGINE PROTECTION:

Oil can be diluted by misfiring plugs dripping raw gas into crankcase. New Champions fire every drop, help prevent costly repair bills.

3. QUICKER STARTING:

In any weather, 5-rib insulator cuts flashover, saves battery. Tests show new Champions start an average 39% quicker when worn plugs are replaced.

4. GREATER ECONOMY:

See how new Powerfire electrode performs in today's engines, delivering full power from every drop of gas long after ordinary electrodes are burned away.

Any one of these four reasons makes it worthwhile to replace worn, misfiring plugs with new, full-firing Champions. But you can get them all—more power, better engine protection, quicker starting, and greater economy—when you install 5-rib Champion Spark Plugs.

To be sure that you are always getting peak engine performance, check spark plugs regularly. If you find worn, pitted electrodes, replace the entire set with dependable new Champions. That way you will get the best possible service from all your farm engines.

ment would then go on holding the bag. This will be hard, if not impossible, to sell to non-farm Congressmen.

Fighting over the corn program will be hot and heavy and probably will continue right up to planting time, same as last year. Some Congressional commodity groups likely will try to load any corn bill with enough special provisions and gimmicks to sink it. It's a risk the Administration has to take.

The picture for other commodities is considerably more settled. Aside from corn, no real upsets or surprises are in store this year.

In the case of the all-important Soil Bank, you'll be able to plant spring wheat, cotton, rice and tobacco knowing exactly what help you can expect. Peanuts, a "basic," and extra-long-staple cotton are not eligible for Soil Bank help this year because there's no surplus of either of them.

Incidentally, you can ignore some of those complaints that the Soil Bank helps big, or little, or middle-sized farmers more than others. All farmers profit from any improvement in the market—those who don't sign up as well as those who do.

Exports Are Booming

Keep your eye on farm exports, if you want to know where prices will be headed a year or so from now. We're shipping our surpluses abroad at a record rate.

From July through November, exports were 36% higher in value and 42% higher in quantity than in the preceding year. Beginning last March, exports consistently exceeded the corresponding month a year earlier. (In November we had a slight dip from the month before, but not the year before, due to a dock strike.)

How long we can keep it up is a question, of course. We aren't the only country anxious to get rid of surpluses. Canada, for example, is unhappy about our wheat export program.

Despite what you've heard about giveaways or sale for "funny money" (soft currencies) — 60% of CCC's disposals since 1953 have been for hard dollars. In the first three months of this fiscal year the percentage rose to 70%.

That Big Budget

The President's budget of a record $5.3 billion for agriculture is another indication of the high cost of carrying a surplus hoard that has built up over the years.

Nearly half of the sum goes to the combined CCC ($1.0 billion) and Soil Bank ($1.2 billion) operations—one to handle the surplus and the latter to cut production and borrow time while we whittle down the surplus pile.

Slightly more money is being allocated for research, extension, conservation, watershed development and flood prevention. The Farmers Home Administration is getting more money for loans to farmers, and the Great Plains Program gets a regular spot in the budget for the first time.

A new six-cylinder gasoline engine, the Meteor "100", will be introduced into the Red Wing line, and a number of new features have been added to the tried and true D4-45 and D6-100 of the Red Wing diesel series.

The new Meteor "100" will enable small boat owners to utilize six-cylinder power light and compact, the new engine offers rugged performance and stamina. It has a bore and stroke of 3-7/16" x 4-1/8" and 230-inch piston displacement. The Meteor "100" also offers such standard Red Wing features as fully enclosed flywheel, long-life manifold with 1/4" water jackets, full pressure lubrication to all working parts, and a seven main bearing crankshaft for extra durability and long service.

The Meteor "110" now offers 115 hp, the "150" is increased to 160 hp, and the "60" is rated at 65, all without additional engine weight.

The Meteor line also includes the 4-cylinder "20" and "65" and six-cylinder models of 115 and 160 hp.

WIDE RANGE OF MARINE DIESELS

Lister-Blackstone's range of propulsion and auxiliary marine diesel engines runs from 3 to 600 hp. The maximum speed of these engines up to 77 hp is 1800 rpm, and above this horsepower it is 750 rpm.

The Freedom Range of water-cooled marine diesel engines develops 9 hp per cylinder. These engines are manufactured in sizes from 1 to 6 cylinders and incorporate many outstanding features. They are fitted with the dual combustion chamber which allows them to be started easily by hand. Also the cylinder liners are chrome hardened in order to produce the most effective wear-resisting surface yet discovered.

On show for the first time is the Lister LDM-1G single cylinder and LDM-2G twin cylinder propulsion air-cooled diesel engines. These are rated at 3 1/2 hp and 7 hp, respectively, at 1800 rpm. They are compact in design, light in weight, and economical in operation.

They also show for the first time the Rootes-Lister TSM-3 diesel engine. This is a 3 cylinder direct injection, horizontally opposed piston, water-cooled, two stroke diesel engine with a blower assisted scavenging system. It is rated at 77 hp at 1800 rpm.

Lister engines are handled by Lister-Blackstone, Inc., 42-32 21st St., Long Island City, N. Y.

HE BUILT A UNIQUE SMOKEHOUSE!

Texaco Consignee R. J. Davis admires the ingenious smokehouse constructed by Rod Breaux, who farms 850 acres near Welsh, La. He simply put together an abandoned water tank, a door from an old house, and an empty Texaco oil drum to contain the wood fire. Cost practically nothing, and turns out delicious smoked meats!

Mr. Breaux is the inventor of several labor-saving devices to make operation of his big farm easier and more economical.

Mr. Davis has been a Texaco Consignee for 39 years, and has a steady customer in Mr. Breaux, who has found that it pays to farm with Texaco products.

TEXACO FIRE CHIEF GASOLINE, with superior power for low-cost operation is supplied to farmers around Orangeburg, S.C., by Texaco Consignee G. P. Gilbert, shown here with L. I. Griffith of the Caw Caw plantation and B. A. Gilbert. The Gilbert brothers are well liked for their dependable, neighborly deliveries.

MARFAK LUBRICANT is delivered regularly by Texaco Consignee Vance Hutchison to Johnnie Walden, farmer of Enterprise, Ala. Mr. Walden agrees that Marfak is superior because it won't drip out, wash out, dry out or cake up — adds to the life of farm machinery and prevents repair bills. Marfak lubricated bearings can take it!

FOR 27 YEARS Texaco Consignee J. Ben Chase has been supplying the 2600-acre Goldman Plantation, Goldman, La., with Texaco products exclusively. H. T. For each, retailers can expect added business if they make definite, workable plans. Most merchants in the toy field seem to recognize the potentials of Easter, but fall down on ideas for St. Patrick's Day or Baby Week. Colorful displays of green shamrocks will convert most any toy item into an item of appeal to all of the "ould sod." Baby Week is just a natural, but the food and apparel retailers seem to be the only ones on the band wagon. Let's start thinking!

How much for promotion?

This is a prime question that confronts all retailers, and its importance is brought out in a survey recently completed by a Philadelphia advertising agency. Arndt, Preston, Chapin, Lamb & Keen points out that most retailers solve the problem in one of three ways.

34 per cent of those responding to its questionnaire base their budget on the combined per cent of past and estimated sales.

24 per cent established it by estimating the cost of the objective and setting a figure.

22 per cent plan their budgets by basing it on the per cent of estimated future sales.

Replies to the survey list storewide sales, department sales and special attractions as attention-getters to bring in the customers. Demonstrations are practiced more than any other in-store activity. Storewide promotions are preferred by 65 per cent rather than sales. Over 80 per cent tie-in with national advertising and television campaigns.

New robot frees thinking time

More than ten years' work on the part of "a hard core" of Associated Merchandising Corp. merchants was revealed this month with the announcement of a new electronic brain to "take the drudgery out of retailing."

The device, called Bizmac, was developed by the Radio Corporation of America in conjunction with 26 members of AMC. Bizmac will speed the compilation of routine reports and "advise us not only of what to buy, in what quantities, when, and at what price, but also aid in such problems as the prompt and accurate tabulation of sales at the counter, the recording of charge accounts and control of credit," says Harold D. Hodgkinson, executive head of Filene's of Boston. First pilot model R.C.A. installation is at Higbee's, Cleveland.

Purpose of Bizmac, says Hodgkinson, is "freeing the merchant for creative thinking." We say, "amen." With the growth of electronics and automation that's about the only thing left a robot hasn't been able to do.

LONE STAR STYLING DEPARTURE

► The 1958 Lone Star line of aluminum and Fiberglass outboard boats offers a complete selection of 22 models, priced from $195.00 to $2195.00, FOB plants in Grand Prairie, Texas, or Bremen, Ind. Most radical departure from traditional styling is shown in the Balboa and Caribbean, 19' Fiberglass runabout and crusette.

Another feature of the '57 line is the optional color styling, allowing purchasers to choose from seven two-tone color combinations, including Newport Green, India Black, Normandy Blue, Arabian Yellow, Shantung Red, Corsair Tan, and Aquamarine.

Even though Lone Star has developed an entirely fresh style in many of its boats, president D. O. Tomlin emphasizes that while a number of the traditionally popular models have been retained for those who prefer them, the line as a whole features styling inspired by the new models.

All semi-V's have the Lone Star "Power-Bar Transom" for larger power applications. Larger 23' and 19' boats have the "Power-Lift Transom," an aid to more effective power.

CHAMPION GROUND GRIPS®

pull consistently, won't cake up or slip!

"The best costs less" is a time-worn tale, but with Firestone Champion Ground Grips it's true—the proof is in the performance! Extra tread plies protect against breaks; extra tread rubber gives longer life. Weather and aging—two enemies of rubber that cost you money—have been beaten by Firestone research. Special ingredients now assure longer rubber life, more tire life. You just can't get as good a buy.

Champion Ground Grips pull harder and handle easier in any soil, with husky high traction bars and broad powerful shoulders that dig deep and come out clean. Flared tread openings take full advantage of rotating tire forces as well as flexing action to toss out mud quick—dependable traction action that keeps you working when the work can't wait.

Your Firestone Dealer or Store wants to trade tires with you—ask him for his high trade-in allowance on your used tractor tires.

"$1,282 Net Profit in 5½ Days" Homelite Chain Saw

It took just 5½ days for Mr. J. Edwin Boozer of Prosperity, South Carolina to cut 180 cords of pulpwood out of his woodlot with a Homelite Chain Saw. He sold the wood for $1,800, which, after deducting $518 for hauling, gas, oil and depreciation, left him with a big profit of $1,282. With this extra income, Mr. Boozer plans farm and home improvements plus a down payment on a new tractor.

TURN YOUR WOODLOT INTO A PROFIT CROP

A powerful, lightweight Homelite Chain Saw can help you turn your trees into money — quickly, easily. It will give you more production at lower cost, because you cut more wood in less time and with lowest maintenance.

For instance, the Homelite EZ gives you 5 horsepower, weighs only 19 pounds. It does every cutting job around farms, estates, ranches, camps. Zips through 8" Oak in 5 seconds, 16" Pine in 14 seconds ... brings down trees up to 3 feet in diameter.

America Was Born

was the thriving Virginia capital, enjoying a profitable commerce and a social life surpassed only by the Court of England. Then the capital was moved to Richmond, and Williamsburg slipped into decay. Many beautiful public buildings and homes burned or fell into ruin.

Williamsburg relives today because of John D. Rockefeller Jr., who has restored nearly 100 buildings. From candlelit inns and craft shops to the stately Governor's Palace, rebuilt Williamsburg is unforgettable.

Here Patrick Henry helped sow the seeds of the Revolution. Here George Mason won adoption of the Declaration of Rights. Here Jefferson was educated and rooted in the democratic ideas which sparked his writing of the Declaration of Independence.

Williamsburg was also the mother of American education, with the first schools of law, social science, the first elective system, the first honor system, and Phi Beta Kappa.

From this leisured, wealthy plantation life sprang an aristocratic culture that Thomas Jefferson called the "finest school of manners and morals" in America. Men and ideals—that was Williamsburg's gift to the world two centuries ago.

For me, this era lives again in the clip-clop of a phaeton drawing up at an evening by the Wythe House. At the most famous of the hostleries, Raleigh Tavern, I can still recapture the excitement of the Burgesses after Patrick Henry's ringing appeal.

Washington's tall figure was well-known at the Raleigh. He came there often, and listened to the latest news in a room blued by the smoke from long clay pipes, or danced at the balls in the Apollo Room. And it was here he returned the victor of Yorktown!

You can readily retrace the decisive battle from the batteries of muzzle-loading cannons long since turned green in the redoubts of Yorktown—or by driving a marked trail along leafy lanes.

Lafayette's troops had backed Cornwallis and 1,500 men into the Yorktown peninsula. A French squadron had routed a British fleet speeding to the Redoubt's relief. The British were pinned against the York River on September 28 when Washington issued the order to advance. Three weeks later the British surrendered all in America.

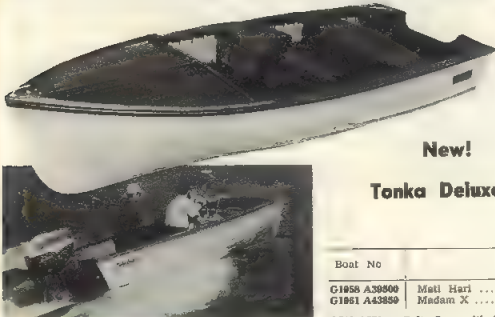

I turned back from the grass-grown bunkers of Yorktown, drove through the mellow grandeur of Williamsburg, past the ancient, whispering forest of Jamestown, and returned again to 1957.

It had been a "jaire" journey indeed—through 176 years of greatness. I think you'll find it—as I did—a tonic for the American spirit.

CAPT. BUILTRITE says, "Here is A helpful guide for the selection of a new boat."

Get the facts about BAYCRAFT pre-assembled boats

PREASSEMBLY is a method of cutting, bending, fitting and fastening the various parts into the completed assembly. This system assures you of a substantial savings in both time and money. The frames are completely erected, all parts marked and fastenings secured. All planking is cut from preinstalled patterns. Deck and cabin framing completely pre-cut and in some models installed. The various parts are then disassembled and carefully crated. You can reassemble all parts easily and perfectly by replacing fastenings in pre-located holes. When buying a Baycraft you don't build a frame yourself but only reassemble one that was previously assembled on our mechanically perfect jig. REMEMBER, every boat is separately cut and assembled, not mass produced.

PROVEN DESIGN: With Baycraft you take no chance of an untried design. Many years and thousands of dollars have been spent designing, lofting and sea-trialing to develop boats of proven characteristics. Hundreds of successful builders have testified to the beauty, strength and seaworthiness of our models.

SELECTED MATERIALS of the highest quality are used on all models, including selected air dried life-time Northern White Oak, genuine Philippine Mahogany and Everdur Bronze fastenings. These materials are cut, shaped and fastened by craftsmen of many years experience.

CAN'T GO WRONG: From our half century of pre-cut and preassembled boat building experience, we know what the amateur can do. Many amateur builders encounter great difficulty in assembling so called "Kit" boats and often end up with something entirely unseaworthy. It is because of this that we go farther in service and pre-fabrication than do the kit boat manufacturers. Where kit boats stop, we begin.

INSTRUCTIONS are complete, detailed, and easy to understand. They have been on-the-job tested hundreds of times. We wish to stress that every boat owner has FREE access to our complete engineering service to answer any problem that may arise. Baycraft works on the assumption you have no special tools and no boat building experience. If you really want a boat, success is guaranteed with Baycraft.

PAY AS-YOU-BUILD is the most practical method of ownership ever offered the amateur boat builder. It means that you have money invested in only that portion under construction. Your dream boat can begin with the first down payment. We can accommodate every budget large or small. By eliminating dealer mark-up and supplying our customers their fittings, engines and equipment at an average discount of 30%, our prices are kept competitive. This in spite of superior materials and workmanship.

3 easy steps to Baycraft ownership...

TRACTION GROWS WITH THE LOAD!

New Fast-Hitch with Traction-Control and "Pilot Guide" give you round-gaining ground grip... look-ahead farming!

It's new... different... unequalled—IH Fast-Hitch with Traction-Control and "Pilot Guide"! This IH weight transfer system continuously keeps just the right amount of pressure on tractor drive wheels to beat slippage.

Unlike other devices that abruptly lighten the load to match traction, IH Traction-Control Fast-Hitch gives you traction that grows with the load! You keep plowing full-depth when others shallow out.

To add up to a ton of "wheel weight," just pull a handy lever! Several lever settings match weight transfer to any field condition. "Pilot Guide" shows proper range of weight transfer and plowing depth.

Unlike hydraulic traction devices which rob engine power when needed most, the mechanical action of Traction-Control Fast-Hitch keeps every horsepower harnessed to the load. New Fast-Hitch retains Back... Click!... and Go! hitching—gives full control of cultivator with one hydraulic cylinder.

"POWER PUT TO BETTER USE!"

Ground-gripping traction that grows with the load puts power of new Farmall® 450 (above) to better use... pulling new McCormick® 4-furrow Fast-Hitch plow in hard, root-bound sod.

Your IH dealer will gladly demonstrate new IH Fast-Hitch with Traction-Control and "Pilot Guide" for Farmalls 230, 350, 450, and International® 350 Utility tractors. Call him, TODAY!

Or, put 350 Utility brawn behind a heavy-duty loader. See how easily you ram the fork or bucket full in a single pass... how power-steering lets you maneuver with single-handed ease. From field to feed-lot, you'll out-work them all with a new International 350 Utility!

Your Letters

I Got Riled, Too • • • Like the lady from Iowa [Letters, September], I finally got fed up with my husband's cracks at marriage. After nine years of it, I blew up one day and told him how his scornful attitude toward marriage had hurt me all those years.

You never saw a more astonished man in your life. "Would I dare joke about something tragic?" he asked me, insisting that he was "only kidding."

I told him he shouldn't joke about sacred things, and when he saw how upset I was, he promised to reform. A week later I was miserable. Seeing him bite down every impulse toward a quip on his favorite subject brought me more pain than his jokes had ever done, and after a few days I really missed his witty digs.

I decided it was I who needed reforming, and found a way to let him know I knew. Now he's back to his old tricks, and I can take them for what they are—a man's carefree ridicule of the things he holds most dear.

Franklinville, N.J. Hope Buyukmihci

• • • Some women just don't enjoy being married! Can't a good home-maker put a few patches on those "jokes that are wearing thin"—and hand them right back for him to wear?

Newcomertown, O. Name Withheld

Wanted: More Farm Boys • • • I highly approved of your article "We'd Like to Hire More Farm Boys" [June], but I'd like to add that there is also a crying need for farm boys in the professions which serve rural people, such as teaching, medicine, law and the ministry.

So many of our smaller communities are lacking in well-trained professional people who understand the needs, problems and personalities of farm folks and who love to live in the country as well.

We former farm boys who are "career" rural ministers would certainly like to have more join our ranks.

Kirklin, Ind. The Rev. J. C. Matthews

"A Scandal That's Costing You Money" • • • [September] certainly

hits home. In our state, local assessors are a law unto themselves, and if you can't agree with them, you've got to take your grievance to the Supreme Court.

We started such proceedings about a year ago, and have since discovered that an assessment action can easily turn into a political football. This game has cost us much time and money, and we are still paying taxes that are outrageously out of line.

You suggest that a committee investigate and report on the local situation. A noble idea, but in our area the feeling is "You can't beat the assessors, so why try." In spite of the general dissatisfaction in our county, we are the only ones who are trying.

Orleans County, N.Y. Name Withheld

• • • In Oklahoma we have a home-stated exemption law which exempts a homeowner from the first $1,000 valuation on his property. Since we have low valuations and a high levy, you'd be surprised at how many fine homes are worth less than $1,000—especially in the part of the state that elects all the state officials.

"I Hear Music—" • • • I'm certainly glad to hear that fences sing [Letters, September]. My old tractor used to do the same thing—and my wife still looks a cross eye when I mention it as my "radio."

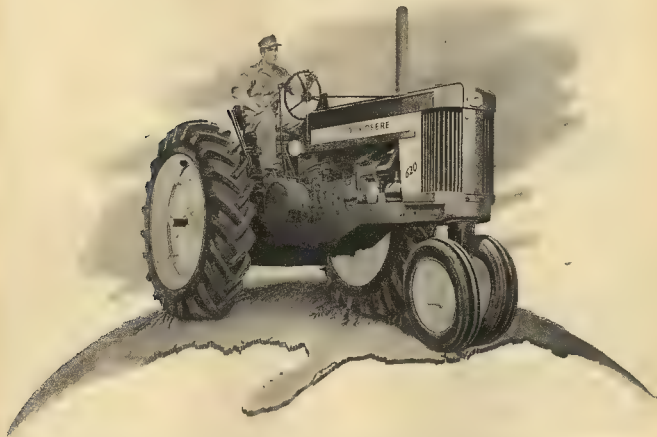

First time it happened I'd just shut the motor off and was putting a hitch on the disc. A voice clear as a bell said "Good morning. Beautiful day, isn't it? Cows standing over there in the grass (they were!) and sun shining down." Then the voice went on to talk about a well-known feed.

Believe you me, I was ready to get going fast and the quicker I got there the better! I was a good half-mile from any house, and there wasn't a tree within 200 yards for anyone to be hiding behind.

I've been using it since—it's a good radio! And I've discovered it has something to do with whether the gas tank lid is tight or loose.

Your farm is our showroom

A Ferguson looks its best with dirt on the tires. And there's no place like your own farm to size up its beauty.

That's where to see Ferguson precision control. In your field, cultivating 4 rows of corn that's 5 inches tall. Or 3 feet tall. You have plenty of clearance with a Hi-40.

The minute you get in the seat, you'll enjoy this tractor. Safe, comfortable, fun to operate. No tedious, separate adjustments. And no waste of fuel. And remember, the Ferguson is recognized as the one tractor with a completely integrated hydraulic system.

Lugging ability? Make your own field the test. Pick out a tough field. Hook up a Ferguson 3-bottom plow, and pull right through it. Automatic weight transfer and true draft control apply your power where it's needed . . . you get full use of all your power at a cost the bigger, fuel-wasting tractors can't match.

The proof is in the field—with your choice of five models. Ask your dealer to show you. In actions, not words. Talk trade with him. See him first . . . or see him last. Either way you can't lose. Ferguson, Racine, Wis.

How
help keep the cost of farming down!

Look at it this way: the more power you have in a truck, the quicker and easier it is to get your farm hauling jobs done. And a Dodge Power Giant gives you the most powerful V-8 of the low-priced three.

This extra power helps cut corners on costs, too, because it means less strain on the engine. Less strain means less wear and fewer repair bills. What's more, Dodge Power Giants, both 6's and V-8's, deliver full power on regular gas.

Dodge saves you time, as well as money, because it's built to haul heavier loads. In fact, the Dodge 300 pick-up can haul up to 73% more than other low-priced pick-ups. Why not see your Dodge dealer and drive a new Dodge Power Giant yourself? Try the extra convenience of a push-button automatic transmission*... there's nothing like it.

*Available on all late-tennage and Forward-Control models.

feeding

BY DONALD K. O'BRIEN

KENNETH BRUSH gathered ideas from feedlots in four states before he designed the beef feeding system which you see in the photos at left.

"And I asked each feeder I visited what changes he would make if he were re-building," adds Brush.

From these visits plus plenty of time with pencil, ruler and paper came this set-up on the Marycrest Farms which Brush manages in Delaware County, Ohio.

The most unusual feature perhaps is the canopy-covered, lazy-susan bunks around the silos. Brush chose this arrangement instead of in-line bunks because these bunks cost less per head to build and maintain, and because they're easier to clean.

Brush finds it easy to regulate the amount he feeds. Idea, of course, is to speed up or slow down the revolving bunk according to the amount of silage that the unloader kicks out. Brush can simply dial these adjustments.

The Ohio feeder has a handy trick for filling these 14' x 40' bottom-unloading silos. He fills the bottom half or so with straight corn silage, then finishes filling with high-moisture, shelled corn. This way the cattle start on corn silage, then automatically switch to the shelled corn for the finishing stretch—all at the touch of a button.

"It saves two handlings of corn," Brush points out, "saves crib space and eliminates a chance of spoilage."

The bunks are each powered by two ½-horse motors, one on each side to keep the pull even. They're V-belted to the 4.5 x 14 pneumatic tires, which are tucked under the feeder out of the weather. With the telescoping pipe legs (black and white photo), Brush can quickly adjust to the size of the cattle on feed.

He made the bunks in 12 sections, 27" wide and 9" deep. The 67 feet of bunk space around each silo will feed about 35 head at a time.

Hay feeding and manure handling are nearly automatic, too. The hay self-feeds through two metal hay keepers that hold 70 tons each.

The photo at the left shows the blade and conveyor system that Brush uses to clean the feeding floor. He keeps a similar conveyor handy to the 50' x 100' remodeled shed located at the corner of the feedlot.

5,000 Descendants Mourn "Mandy"

Mandy, the mother of 27, died last month in Waller County, Tex.

More than 5,000 descendants survive this Jersey-Brahman cow, born 1922 on W. C. Compton's plantation.

She calved every year from 1925 1952—raised 27 calves, lost only one. Except for her bobbed tail, frozen in 1924, there was nothing unusual about her appearance. She was a large cream-and-gray matron with strong characteristics of her Brahman father.

Apparently Mandy, who had been the foundation of Compton's fine commercial Brahman herd, is passing her longevity along. Her first calf, a male 32-year-old, is still hale and hearty.

It wasn't pampering that kept Mandy going. "She got no supplement feed at all until after she was 30," relates owner Compton. "And then only the winters. Part of her long life, think, was her Brahman blood."

Compton had intended to bury Mandy in a special burial plot. But he reasoned that Mandy would probably prefer to continue her usefulness in death. So he sent her carcass to rendering plant.

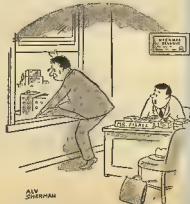

Tests Show It Pays To Shear Ewes Twice

Does it pay to shear ewes twice year? It did in a three-year test Michigan State University. Ewes sheared in February and again two weeks before breeding netted $2.5 more for lamb and wool.

One reason is a 20% larger lamb crop raised. The Michigan scientists figured 20 pounds more lamb. At 20¢ per pound that's $4 more lamb per ewe.

As you would expect, the short-wool fleece was worth less—$1.24 to be exact based on 1955 prices and subsidy. At it cost $50 to shear the second time. But the extra lamb still made twice-year shearing a paying proposition.

VALENTINA DANCING BALLERINA

Becomes Regular Walking Doll

with the Amazing Jointed Body that Bends and Swivels at Waist

Does a Split and Back Bend

Bends and Swivels Ankles, Knees and Body

Kicks Out with Knee Bent or Straight

STAR OF THE BALLET. Valentina Ballerina will dance right into your heart. Authentic in every detail, she wears long dance hose, real CAPEZIO Slippers and the glamorous tutu of the Blue Bird Ballet. Because her knees and ankles are flexible she assumes all of the positions illustrated and hundreds more merely by the touch of the finger

But that's not all! For the first time in history a doll ingeniously jointed — at the waist, permitting her to bend and turn or sway in any direction. Her head is of soft life-like vinyl. Her eyes open and close. Her hair is saran and is rooted in her scalp (actually imbedded like real hair) in a long full ponytail style. Her arms, too, are of the same skin-like vinyl, and are shaped to take on the graceful pose of a ballerina. The body and legs are fine unbreakable plastic. When you hold her and lead her she takes short dancing steps. By lowering her foot to a normal walking position she can be dressed in street clothes and becomes a regular walking doll. Valentina comes with a 3 way reflector practice bar that serves as a stand and as an attractive display piece. You'll treasure Valentina Ballerina for years and years. Truly a doll masterpiece!

36 PIECE DOLL, WARDROBE and STAGE SET

This 20" package of joy is the greatest thrill ever for your little dancer. Her head is soft life-like vinyl. Her eyes open and close. Her hair is saran and is rooted in her scalp (actually imbedded like real hair) in a long full ponytail style. The body and legs are fine unbreakable plastic. When you hold her and lead her she takes short dancing steps, and turns her head from side to side. But, that's not all! Because her knees and ankles are flexible she can assume any of the positions illustrated and hundreds more merely by a touch of the finger. By lowering her foot to a normal walking position she can be dressed in street clothes and becomes a regular walking doll. Along with the Doreena Doll is her wardrobe for street wear and stage wear.

She has authentic Ballet costumes for:

- Swan Lake
- The Nutcracker and, Oh yes!
- Beau Danube
- A leotard for practice, too.

Going to and from the theatre — she must wear street clothes — so she has regular walking shoes and short socks — a lovely street dress and a dressy little coat and hat. Her shoes are by CAPEZIO. When she has a formal to attend after the theatre, she wears her beautiful velvet Beau Danube costume with a matching velvet stole. For sleeping, she has a lovely sheer Ninon nightgown. An extra pair of dance shoes and dance hose are also included — Not to mention hangers for her things, and curlers to change her hair style from time to time.

Since she sometimes performs at parties and teas, she has her own stage which travels with her — and her wardrobe hangs in the two sections that fit right into this compact set. There never was a doll like this before.

that I decided we'd try a family council. They liked the idea.

On Friday night we sat around the dining table and talked. In the course of our discussion, we decided on a regular bedtime hour for everybody, decided on TV privileges, and who was to do which chores.

The next few days were wonderful! No more fighting among the children; and when the clock pointed to nine, off they scampered to bed! And were they proud of their behavior because they were being the boss. Before the novelty wore off we had another council.

Now we hold council each Friday night. Dad and I look forward to it as much as the children. We don't feel like dictators to our offspring since they make the rules.

Second Birth

DEAR EDITOR: Today is my son's birthday. He's one year old. I baked a cake as I always do for the others; we all sang Happy Birthday. He and his sisters are asleep now. I'm alone with the cake crumbs, thinking how strange it is that I celebrated so many birthdays without knowing what a birthday really means. I learned about birthdays a year ago this very day.

My first two children arrived uneventfully. But with this third delivery, I was 10 years older. Soon after the onset of labor I knew something was wrong. All that day and the next I lay in a haze of pain. Later I learned that unexpected complications had arisen and I had balanced precariously on that thin line between life and death.

The baby finally arrived in the early morning hours; by dawn I was awake.

I was still exhausted but I had no desire to sleep. It was still dark outside, but I could see the lights of early-risers in the homes around the hospital. As I watched, more lights came on, and I thought: Oh, Strangers, I am so glad to be here—to see your lights! That marvelous rain-drenched day almost dawned without me. I had seen these houses a man, Charles Lehman of Franklin County, has gone back to floor birds.

Floors or Cages?

"I just can't see the advantages of cages," explains Lehman. "And this litter problem, from birds spilling so much water, was a constant headache."

You get more, not less dirty eggs, from cage layers. Contrary to expectations, a considerably higher percentage of cage-produced eggs must be cleaned. Most operators of cage houses in Kansas are now washing all of their eggs.

However E. M. Funk, poultry head at the University of Missouri, says that "except for a higher percentage of blood spots, the interior quality of cage-produced eggs is slightly higher."

Other disadvantages of cages:

Grain feeding is impractical, so you can't feed your own home-grown grains without having them ground and mixed into a complete feed. And finally, a cage house is very inflexible—you can't switch to producing broilers or hatching eggs without sacrificing your investment in cages.

Well, how do the pros and cons add up?

Says the University of Missouri's Funk: "In our tests, there seemed to be no particular advantage in keeping layers in cages here."

But Bill Colway of Douglas County, Neb., who has had 2,000 of his 5,000 layers in cages for the past 18 months, sees a compromise: "I would have cages for about 20% of the hens," he says—"the birds that are slow to start laying, the back-sliders and pullets that appear a little sickly."

Arthur Shultis, University of California farm management specialist, suggests that the cage-versus-floor feud may be little more than a conversation piece. "I have come to the conclusion," he says, "that the type of housing used is not nearly so important as many people believe. The selection of stock, feed and general over-all good care seem much more important to me." End

"If you think I'm going to try to cook that, you're crazy!"

tremax* sets the trend in bouncing horses for '57!

A completely new realism in the art of the bucking horse has been achieved by Tremax in its new line of bucking horses. They make front-end days a reality for the young riders of 7 foot and over. Tremax has achieved this by the use of a new and improved rubber core which is made of a special material and is hand-laid on the inside of the leather covering the horse. The result is a new, realistic, and springy horse that is the perfect fit for the young rider's needs. Tremax is now the leader in the art of bucking horses for the '57 season.

most Important Product

The pursuit of happiness is everyone's right but few men are privileged to create it. Gund designers and craftsmen are grateful for their ability to manufacture "happy playthings... They approach their tasks each day with renewed resolve to achieve the best products their skills and the finest materials can provide.

Their creations not only reflect long experience (Gund history goes back to 1898) and inspired originality — but there's an added ingredient that gives each Gund a special distinction.

Call it "pride of performance" — or "creed of craftsmanship" — but it's there... Buyers see it... Consumers sense it... Result: each year the demand for Gund stuffed toys grows bringing extra profits, extra patrons, at every buying level, to retailers across the nation... Write for the latest catalog.
